Pay-per-bag revived

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Board of Selectmen is once again considering adopting a pay-per-bag system for disposal of household and business waste.

Under such a system, users would purchase special bags for disposing of their non-recycled waste. The bags would be used whether the waste was picked up at curbside or left at the transfer station.

Sorted waste disposed of at the recycling center would not require bags.

The idea of pay-per-bag has been floated before but has never progressed much beyond the discussion stage -- in large part because of anticipated public resistance.

The idea came up again at Monday's selectmen's meeting, in the course of a discussion of the town's solid waste disposal options.

Supporters claim pay-per-bag is fairer than the current system, because users would pay in proportion to the amount of waste they actually generate. It also encourages recycling, they say, since material that is recycled doesn't end up taking up space in a paid-for bag.

Pay-per-bag would also ensure that tax-exempt property owners (for example, public schools, Gould Academy, NTL, churches and fraternal organizations) would begin paying for the waste they generate, and commercial establishes would pay according to the amount of waste they actually generate.

"My gut feeling is it's going to be a savings to the individual homeowner," said Selectman Bob Chadbourne.

But opponents of pay-per-bag point to its relative complexity and to the possibility that some people would circumvent the system by illegally dumping their waste along the highway.

The selectmen currently have the authority to implement pay-per-bag on their own, but given the controversial nature of the proposal, the consensus of the board Monday appeared to be that it would be more prudent to put the choice to voters -- but not at a Town Meeting.

"I'd really prefer some informational meetings, then a referendum.

Term limits for selectmen?

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Bethel Selectman Rick Whitney wants town voters to decide if there should be a limit to how many consecutive years a person can serve on the Board of Selectmen.

The town is scheduled to vote Feb. 14 on tax increment financing for Bethel Station, and Whitney proposed Monday night that voters also be asked then about term limits.

Whitney acknowledged that term limits, "are not as usefully locally as nationally," but he argued that the idea should still be put before Bethel voters.

His fellow selectmen were unenthusiastic. "I'm in favor of term limits for Congress and the Senate," said John Thurston, "because those are areas where someone can accumulate meaningful power -- but I've never seen significant power held by a selectman."

And Art Gilbert said that voters are already free to throw out selectmen who have overstayed their usefulness. "I think you've already got that power when you go to the polls." Gilbert also noted that it was often difficult to find qualified people willing to serve.

No formal action was taken on the matter Monday, but Town Clerk Merton Brown volunteered to research the question and report back to the board with possible wording for a term-limits referendum article.

REASON FOR THANKSGIVING
Flight instructor Ed Hemmy and student pilot Pete Leavitt of Bethel both walked away uninjured after an aborted practice landing ended with a crash in the woods near Col. Dyke Airport Tuesday afternoon. Stephen Whitney, co-president of Bethel Air Service and owner of the aircraft, said the two men had been doing practice maneuvers over North Pond, then returned to the airport to practice landings. Whitney said he was not sure who was piloting the plane at the time of the accident. There were strong winds at the time, Whitney said, and Hemmy and Leavitt decided to abort their first landing run, only to have a gust of wind pick up the right wing. "It just kind of floated sideways into the trees," Whitney said. The drill in such situations is to try to hit the trees tail first, he said, and the pilot was able to do this -- avoiding any injury. The accident is being investigated by the Federal Aviation Administration. Whitney said Hemmy and Leavitt "both say they're ready to fly again." Bethel Air Service expects to have another aircraft ready for operation today, Whitney said.

The Board of Selectmen voted last week to give Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Pratt 30 days to install a septic system or face court action.

The selectmen mailed the couple a letter last week asking them to install the system or vacate their trailer.

The Pratts were issued a permit last fall that allowed them to set up the trailer and live in it with a porta-potty on site until the septic system was installed, according to Town Manager Vern Maxfield. The trailer was vacant over the winter and the couple did not inhabit it until late summer, Maxfield said.

"They are living there now without a porta-potty or a septic system," Maxfield said after the meeting. "We just got to the point where we had to issue them an ultimatum. Our ordinance says there will be a septic system installed and working before the residence is occupied."

The Pratts were given 10 days -- beginning Thursday when they picked up their registered notice-- to start the work and 30 days to complete it.

If the septic system is not installed, the town can go to court for a court order to put in a system or vacate the home.

Crime Bill will not add many police in this area

By WENDY HANSCOM

Two local police agencies are investigating how they might tap into the $44 million allocated to Maine under the recently enacted federal crime bill.

But Bethel is not currently planning to apply for any funding.

Under the "Cops Fast" program, towns with populations below 50,000 can apply for funding from the Federal Police Hiring Supplement Program.

Towns that apply will be asked for a 25 percent match. Grants are made for up to 75 percent of the total salary and benefits of each officer for three years.

Bethel Town Manager Madeleine Henley said adding another officer to the town's three-man squad probably doesn't make sense now.

"The money pays up to 75 percent," Henley said, "There's no guarantee it would pay the full 75 percent allowed. Probably three years down the road, adding another officer might make sense. But as soon as we get another cop we'd need another car, and I don't think it's an expense we're willing to take on at this point."

Oxford County Sheriff Lloyd "Skip" Herrick, however, is consid-

After 65 years, Bethel will no longer have an IGA store.

Carl and Pat Glidden, owners of the Bethel IGA -- the town's only grocery store -- are dropping the IGA line of products.

The couple plan to buy their store-brand and some other goods from another vendor, according to Mr. Glidden.

The store had sold out most of its IGA products by the end of last week, Glidden said. The store will be renamed soon, he said, but the new name has yet to be announced.

The Gliddens have already discontinued the IGA line in their Conway, N.H. and York stores.

By hooking up with a larger distributor, the Gliddens hope to offer their customers lower prices on many store and brand-name items, Glidden said.

"It should help us compete with the super Shop 'n Saves and Shaws," Glidden said. "We'll have the same quality of products at a lower price and more varieties are possible."

IGA distributes about $120 million in wholesale products each year in Maine, Glidden said. The new distributor, C&S wholesalers of Vermont, does about $2 billion in wholesale business a year throughout New England, he said.

ALCOHOL HAS ITS PLACE

To the Editor:

I read with great interest the letter from Mr. John Grant concerning Ms. Wheeler's and Ms. Pond's plans for The Only Place. I just say I take exception at some of his views. First, Mr. Grant says he applauds "any effort to provide a place where kids today can get off the street and find a friendly atmosphere in which to spend their spare time." However, I don't recall Mr. Grant voicing any support to these businesswomen's last proposed venture in West Bethel, an establishment that did not include alcohol.

Furthermore, Mr. Grant states that "one of the greatest threats to the well being of our kids today is our culture's widespread substance abuse ... (and) anyone wishing to provide a safe, friendly environment for the teens of today must have, as one of their goals, the elimination of the image of alcohol as a viable part of a healthy lifestyle."

Well, Mr. Grant, while alcohol abuse is certainly a problem, the responsible use of alcohol is not only legal, has not only been around since before the religion he preaches has existed, but is still present and possibly prevalent in many homes today, homes that actually have children living in them! To say that the way to combat alcohol abuse is to shield teens from a perspective that demonstrates the responsible use of a legal and even noble beverage (in the case of beer and wine) would be like not letting anybody ride in a car before they got their driver's license, to encourage good driving. Perhaps Mr. Grant also believes that people under the age of 21 should not be allowed in restaurants that have alcohol, lest the children think that eating and drinking go together.

Mr. Grant consistently refers to teenagers as "young people," but insists on treating them as children. Most responsible adults are able to use alcohol, without abusing it. The way to educate these people, is through experience and by example, not by hiding potential dangers of abuse from them until they can legally (and yes, anyone over 21 can legally) go purchase alcohol for themselves.

So, Mr. Grant, perhaps next time an effort is made to provide a safe haven for young people that suits your ethical values, you will do more to support that cause and not let it get waylaid by the Not in My Back Yard'ers. And hopefully you will rethink your protective close-minded, neo-prohibitionist views which do more harm to today's young people than good. If he wishes to discuss this further, I would be happy to spend the time.

TOLLS FOR SNOWMOBILES, ATV?

To the Editor:

As an avid ATVer and snowmachiner, I am saddened and ashamed to write this letter. Last weekend, a friend and I were enjoying riding ATVs on one of the snowmachine trails, which are not posted, as most of the local trails are not, when we came upon some people finishing a new bridge. After stopping, we were asked if we had $15. I asked why we needed the money. Oscar Hartford (treasurer of the Greenstock Snowmachine Club) replied, "To join the Greenstock Snowmachine Club." My friend stated that he did not own a snowmachine. Mr. Hartford said that you did not need one to join the club. I told Mr. Hartford I did not have $15. He responded by telling us if we did not have $15 apiece we could use the old bridge, which lay in a pile next to the brook. I again asked to cross the bridge, Mr. Hartford's reply was if we did not have the money we would have to go around.

Personally I have helped in maintaining the local trails and have helped the Bethel Snowmachine Club build two new bridges in the past years, even though I am not a member. My feeling is that everyone benefits from cooperation, and the Bethel Club appears to realize this.

As for the Greenstock Club, I live in Bethel, the new bridge was being built in Bethel, and if I wish to join a club it is only common sense that I would join the Bethel Club. Furthermore, if the actions and words of Mr. Hartford reflect the attitudes and opinions of the Greenstock Snowmachine Club, I would be ashamed to be associated with them.

I do not think you should be forced to join a club to use the trails and bridges. I feel that the registration fee I pay every year for my snowmachine, as well as my ATV, should be quite sufficient.

NEW CPS WAS SORELY NEEDED

To the Editor:

As a parent of a special needs child in SAD44, I have to question part of Mrs. Howe's comment last week in the paper.

I don't know what reasons she was given for closing Ethel Bisbee School, but I know from dealing with the situation firsthand it never could have been made handicapped accessible. Especially "without too much of a cost outlay."

My child was never able to attend that school for those reasons. While two-thirds of his class did, there was always that other one-third who were separated and attended CPS.

Yes, Ethel Bisbee is being used by adults now, but those same accessibility problems exist and someday may have to be addressed.

Also, children were not crowded into portables to show how much a new addition was needed. The need was proven long before the portables. The portables were provided so our children could have a safe learning environment during construction.

Lastly, we do have a much grander building now, but I challenge anyone to show me the "much wasted space."

TURKEY SUPPER NO SHOWS

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the Bethel town employees who did not show up for the free appreciation supper held on Nov. 15. The turkey supper with all the trimmings was delicious. A lot of time and effort, not to mention money, was spent preparing the meal. Will we do it again next year? It will be a cold day in .... Oh, one selectman did appreciate the meal.

UP IT GOES–Volunteers raise a piece of the new playground equipment set up at Crescent Park School over the weekend. Approximately 60 volunteers and workers, from Kompan Big Toys of Ohio, pitched in during the two days of work. The new playground equipment cost about $25,000, according to CPS principal David Murphy. The CPS/PTA raised roughly $10,000, and the balance came from a construction contingency account. The equipment (which easily withstood Sunday's minor earthquakes) was given a day to settle Monday and on Tuesday was swarming with happy kids. (Photo by Michael Daniels)

Town and MCI reach tentative agreement

By BARBARA ADAMS

Selectmen and representatives of MCI Telecommunications Corp. tentatively agreed last week to settle the company's tax assessment appeals, according to town attorney Curtis Webber.

The disputed tax assessments date back to 1988.

Webber called the decision "positive" for the town. He declined to talk about the specifics of the agreement, but did discuss the case in general terms.

"We have reached a tentative agreement for all claims of MCI tax assessments dating back to 1988," Webber said. "And in general, the arrangement is in the town's best interest. The agreement is that the town will adjust the assessment downward for 1994, and less for 1995 and future years.

"If we adjust it downward for 1994, the town will have to make a modest rebate on the company's 1994 tax bill, which it has already paid," Webber said. "This rebate would be an amount the taxpayers feel they can live with. I assume there will be a special Town Meeting in this regard, unless the town can find the funds in other accounts. We have told MCI we will let them know."

The 1988 and 1989 tax assessment cases were based on the fact that the purchase price MCI paid the Communications Satellite Corporation (COMSAT) was a little more than $500,000.

In 1988, Michael Austin, a certified Brunswick assessor, assessed the property at $11.2 million, and real estate at $4.5 million. MCI officials later upped their assessment to $2.5 million, following an independent appraisal. According to Webber, this figure "was still far below the town's assessment."

Subsequent assessments by Austin have resulted in higher figures, which MCI has annually appealed.

Judith Chamberlin, attorney for the Board of Property Tax Review, explained earlier this year that the tax board had denied MCI's 1988 appeal on the grounds that MCI had not provided adequate response to Austin's request for information.

On appeal to Superior Court, the matter was sent back to the tax board on the grounds that MCI had not been given adequate time to formulate its responses, and the case should be heard on its merits. The case was found in favor of the town, a decision which still stands.

An oral decision had been given for the town in the 1989 case, and a written decision was supposed to come from the tax board. Webber said that Assistant Attorney General Diane Doyon had prepared a draft decision and circulated it among the tax board, but it was not formally issued for nearly three years. MCI could not appeal the case until the written decision had been issued, Webber said.

According to Chamberlin, both parties had agreed that the tax board stay a decision on the cases for the following years until the 1989 case was decided.

In a recent decision by Superior Court Justice Don Alexander, the 1989 case was remanded to the tax board to be considered again, on the grounds that MCI had not been given due process in this case.

Webber noted Wednesday, "The Property Tax Review Board in Augusta is all backed up now with cases waiting to be heard."

The delays in the cases have been blamed on a state budget crisis that left the tax board underfunded and understaffed for several years.

"This agreement will remove the sword that has been hanging over the town's head for several years," Webber stated. "The amount involved has been one million dollars, which is a staggering sum, and terrifying. It could have bankrupted the town. We don't agree with that amount, but it was the amount in dispute."

Selectman Chairwoman Kathy Williamson said she thought the agreement was "good news" for the town.

"The selectmen left the meeting with MCI much relieved," Webber said, "and concluded the meeting with a handshake. It is positive for the town. The next thing I think will happen will be a notice of a special town meeting. At the meeting, both Austin and I will be there to help explain the situation. I think this decision is in the town's best interest."

Schachter's human rights claim is dismissed

By BARBARA ADAMS

The Maine Human Rights Commission has dismissed an unlawful discrimination claim filed by Andover's former administrative assistant.

A report by a commission investigator states that Rebecca Schachter's claim is not valid under the Whistle Blower Protection Act.

Schachter "alleges that she advised the (late) Selectman Raymond Hutchins that she did not believe Chairman Brian Mills was abiding by the legal requirements regarding actions needing to take place in public session" states a report from the commission, "that thereafter she was given a written reprimand for being divisive, although they (the selectmen) would not specify in what way; and that several months later her work hours were limited. ... She believes that her insistence that the official actions of the selectmen be done in a public meeting was the motivating factor behind her reprimand and her termination."

Town selectmen have denied in a written statement that there were any complaints about or allegations of violations of the Right To Know law -- before or after Schachter was fired.

The commission's report says that there is no proof that town selectmen were taking retaliatory action when they fired Schachter.

"Even for the sake of argument (that) Ms. Schachter's actions were considered blowing the whistle, it would be possible to conclude that the actions taken (by the board) were retaliatory, in that the subject of reducing her hours had been discussed long before any alleged whistle-blowing activity ... Ms. Schachter was not cooperative in her working relationship with the head of the selectmen, Brian Mills; and there were reasonable requirements of her job (timely preparing of minutes from the Selectmen's meetings) which she did not complete.

"It is difficult to conclude that Ms. Schachter engaged in a protected activity under title 26," the report continues. "By her own information, Ms. Schachter indicates that various members of the Board of Selectmen were aware as early as 1990 and 1991 of concerns that Mr. Mills conducted business outside of an appropriate public session. Telling Mr. Hutchins that she believed action on Mr. Mills' part with regard to the hiring of a highway worker violated the legal requirement for an open meeting is hard, in the total context, to be seen as blowing the whistle.

"It is recommended," commission officials Patricia Ryan and Diane Bennekamper concluded, "that the Maine Human Rights Commission issue the following finding: there are no reasonable grounds to believe that unlawful discrimination in employment because of actions which are protected under Title 26 has occurred against Rebecca Schachter by the town of Andover, and that the complaint be dismissed."

Schachter was fired outside of a public meeting in September 1992, and later terminated at a public meeting in December.

Schachter has also filed a suit in Superior Court, claiming her individual rights were violated when she was fired.

That suit may go to jury trial in December, the town's attorney said.

THIS WEEK AT THE

Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the next monthly meeting of the society will be held on Thursday, Dec. 1, at the Dr. Moses Mason House, 14 Broad St. At 6:30 p.m. the society will once again host "Christmas with the Masons;" the period house museum will be decorated as it might have been in the early 19th century with bows, berries and fruit; hot mulled cider will be served from the hearth of the winter kitchen; delicious Christmas treats will tempt visitors in the dining room; early holiday music will be provided in the museum by Gretchen Awalt on the flute. In the meeting room, the West Parish Congregational Church Bell Choir will perform and Edna York will lead carol singing at the piano. At 7:30 p.m., a short business meeting will be held followed by slides made of old photographs during the past year.

Anyone interested in attending this meeting is cordially invited to do so.

Donald and Mary Calderwood's recent contribution to the 1994 Annual Fund was in memory of Ruby Jodrey Mott and Elsie Flint Hewey.

A New England boiled dinner was held on Nov. 19 to honor volunteers who assisted in the museum and/or the gardens during 1994.

Maine Wolf Coalition begins campaign

AUGUSTA--Beginning January 1995, the Maine Wolf Coalition will be available to give presentations throughout the state on wolf recovery in Maine. In 1993, an eastern timber wolf was shot and killed in Maine, prompting speculation that wolves may be attempting a comeback after and absence of nearly 100 years. The coalition is neither anti-hunting nor anti-trapping, but is pro-wolf, and believes wolves can co-exist with hunting, trapping, farming and timber harvesting in the state.

No new railroad crossings soon

WOODSTOCK--Woodstock will probably not put in new "flashing" warnings any time soon at railroad crossings, according to Town Manager Vern Maxfield. A few residents had asked Maxfield to look into the warning lights for Pine Point and Lakeside Drive railroad crossings, he said. In order to qualify for federal funds to help pay for the lights, 500 cars a day must pass through a crossing, Maxfield said. The Maine Department of Transportation listed 55 cars for the Pine Point crossing and 35 for the Lakeside Drive, he said. The town could petition MDOT to hold public hearings, Maxfield said. After the hearings, the MDOT commissioner would ultimately decide whether or not the lights were necessary. The commissioner could then have the state pay all or part of the bill, Maxfield said, but could also ask the town to foot all or a percentage of the cost. The crossing lights cost about $50,000 each, Maxfield said, which at full price is probably more than townspeople are willing to spend.

Minor earthquake shakes area

WESTERN MAINE--A small earthquake was reported Sunday afternoon by residents of Western Maine. It was a 3.0 magnitude quake, according to the U.S. Geological Survey's National Earthquake Information Center. It was doubtful any damage was done by the quake, according to center officials. The quake was reported at 2:34 p.m. and was felt in Norway, South Paris, Sweden, Oxford and Bethel.

Greenwood dump to be covered

GREENWOOD--The Greenwood and Woodstock Solid Waste Board has accepted a bid of $13,000 from contractor Dennis Wilson of Greenwood to cover part of the towns' stump dump. Cost for the project includes site work and mulching.

West Paris woman injured in crash

MINOT--Two people received minor injuries Friday when their cars slid under a flatbed trailer on Route 119 near the West Minot village. Driver Pamela Weeks, 35, of West Paris suffered facial cuts and chest bruises, according to police. The other driver complained he had bumped his head. Both were taken to a Lewiston hospital. Both cars were headed toward Auburn when they apparently failed to see the flatbed as it pulled across Route 119 from the right and headed toward West Minot. The flatbed was unloaded. Weeks hit the flatbed just to the right of the rear wheels, police said, and the other driver avoided rear-ending Weeks, but slid partially under the center of the flatbed.

NOVA considers longer days

RUMFORD--The Northern Oxford Vocational Area board discussed expanding NOVA's secondary school hours by 45 minutes last week, but tabled the issue after SAD44 administrators said it would disrupt the district's bus schedule. NOVA director Dewaine Crag introduced a plan to lengthen the NOVA day from 8:15 a.m. to 2 p.m. beginning Jan. 24. "This would cause difficulties for SAD44," Craig said, "I'm aware of that. We will be affecting six students. SADs 21 and 43 have no problem with the plan, he said. SAD44 superintendent Ronald Jenkins, Telstar principal Theodore Davis and SAD44 board member and NOVA director Margaret Hand all spoke against the plan. "As a board member, I haven't heard about this at all," Hand said. "You can't walk over the needs of the minority to get what is best for the majority. Give us a chance to look at this so we can come up with a proposal. The board decided to table any action until next month's meeting so all sides will have a chance to study the issue.

Commissioners debate chase speeds

PARIS--Oxford County Commissioner Albert S. "Jim" Carey asked the Sheriff's Department last week to consider banning high speed chases. Carey and commission Chairman Norman K. Ferguson Jr. both said they felt too many cruisers were being lost and too many lives put in danger by high speed chases. Herrick said depending on the location of the pursuit or the time of day, other options may not be available. "I think they're a necessary evil," he said. The Maine County Commissioners Association may soon provide more funding for more police officers to take course in pursuit driving, Herrick said. The OCSD's policy on the chases was adopted from the Maine Chief of Police Association, Herrick said. The Maine Attorney General's office is pushing for a uniform statewide policy on high speed chases, he said.

Library to laser scan books

LEWISTON--The Lewiston Public Library went into the automation age last week when library staff began using laser scanners to replace their 91-year-old system of hand-stamping library books. Library staff can also quickly tell if books are in or out, and when they are due. Library cardholders will be issued new, plastic, bar-coded library cards for use with the system.

Risky maple syrup?

AUGUSTA--The state Department of Agriculture is still trying to determine whether lead contamination in Maine maple syrup poses a health risk to consumers. Three weeks of testing in October revealed lead was present in all 14 tested samples of Maine maple products. The agriculture department commissioner said further testing will be needed before the department can advise the public on the safety of the products.

Social program spending cutback

FARMINGTON--Farmington plans to eliminate spending on social service agencies. Selectmen said recently they plan to cut town appropriations to nonprofit organizations by 25 percent in 1995. The cutback is part of a plan to eliminate funding such agencies altogether by 1998.

Students protest possible dress code

LEWISTON--The Lewiston School Committee is considering a new dress code that would restrict what students can wear to Lewiston High School. Clothing that promotes the use of tobacco, drugs or alcohol, and anything with words or expressions that could be considered sexual, vulgar, lewd or indecent would be prohibited. Insults or racial and ethnic slurs would also be banned, as would anything that might signify membership in a gang. Students have started a petition opposing the proposed policy. One student has asked the student body to boycott the school lunch program in protest.

Hunter shoots his foot

FRYEBURG--A 17-year-old Limerick hunter shot himself in the foot last week as he was loading his rifle, according to the Maine Warden Service. He was treated for the wound but not admitted to a hospital.

County commissioner dies

RUMFORD--Oxford County Commissioner Reginald "Butch" Guay, 58, died unexpectedly last week of heart complications. He had been a county commissioner for the past 10 years. The governor's office will name a replacement for Guay. By state law, the replacement must be from the same district as Guay and must be affiliated with the same party. The governor will also appoint someone to replace Norman K. Ferguson Jr., who is leaving his post to serve as state senator for District 24.

From the Bethel Police log:

No charges in bathroom brawl

On Saturday, Nov. 19, a Bethel man told police he had been assaulted by a local lounge employee. The man told police he had been pushed into a bathroom mirror, bloodying his nose. Police spoke to the lounge employee, who said he was simply trying to fend off an assault by pushing away the Bethel man. There were no other witnesses to the altercation, and no charges were filed.

In other recent police news:

Sunday, Nov. 20

1 a.m. - Police responded to a report of a theft on Route 232. The woman thought the suspect might still be inside the house. Police checked the home, but found no one inside. The woman was missing about $700 in jewelry, cash and other items.

11 a.m. - A Route 2 craft shop owner reported that she had found cash in some bushes around a nearby building, and then discovered the shop and an adjoining house had been burglarized. Cash and change was missing from the shop, and a cash register was destroyed.

8:55 p.m. - A Gorham, N.H. man hit a deer on Route 2 near Steam Mill Village. Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $300.

Saturday, Nov. 19

12:30 a.m. - Police arrested Jerrold L. Mason, 25, of West Paris for operating under the influence. Mason was stopped on Chandler Hill and failed field sobriety tests, according to the police log.

9:25 a.m. - A West Bethel man reported that sometime recently someone had smashed the headlights of his antique station wagon, which was stored in a shed behind his house. The damage was estimated at $400.

1:53 p.m. - A Bethel Irving employee reported that while he was pumping gas, he was bit on the arm by a large Rottweiler in the back of a pickup. When the Irving employee asked the vehicle's driver his name and address, the man ignored the request and drove off. Police have a description of the vehicle.

Friday, Nov. 18

11 a.m. - A Mechanic Street man told police his jacket, with his wallet in the pocket, had recently been stolen from a local lounge. Police talked to a lounge employee, who said he remembered a woman leaving with the jacket tucked under her arm. Police spoke to the woman, who admitted leaving with the jacket, but said she was "too intoxicated" at the time to remember what she did with it. Police asked her to return it or possibly face theft charges. The jacket had not been returned by Monday afternoon.

Wednesday, Nov. 16

8:50 a.m. - A Bethel woman told police that two juveniles had threatened her son. Police filed a report with the juvenile intake worker in South Paris.

5 p.m. - Police charged four juveniles -- two from Bryant Pond, one from Greenwood and the other from Albany -- with burglary and theft. The juveniles were charged with taking clothing from a Keenan Store tent sale. Some of the clothing was returned. No estimate on what may still be missing was available.

8:35 p.m. - An officer saw a suspicious vehicle turn into a Sunday River Road residence. When the officer cruised back by the house, he saw two men standing near the garage. As the cruiser pulled into the driveway, one man ran into the woods. The remaining man told police he was the passenger and did not know the other man. The occupants of the house said the two men were strangers. Police had the vehicle towed. Police later spoke to the driver, who said he ran because he didn't know who was following him. The man told police he thought it might be someone he'd had an altercation with earlier in the evening.

Tuesday, Nov. 15

6:10 p.m. - A 15-year-old juvenile with a learner's permit hit a deer on the Annis Road. Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $300. The injured animal was not located.

6:45 p.m. - An officer was requested to serve as a peace officer while a woman picked up her son from a visit with her ex-husband.

Accidents

Nov. 12 - At 11:17 a.m., Paul Santry, 20, of Tyngborough, Mass., lost control of his vehicle on the Grover Hill Road. The vehicle had been headed south when it rolled one-and-a-half times, and came to rest on its roof facing north. Both Santry and his passenger received minor injuries. An ambulance was called to the scene, but no further information was available.

Nov. 18 - At 10:28 p.m., Kendrick Scribner, 68, of Bethel, fell asleep, according to the police log, and hit a phone pole. Police estimated the damage to the 1988 Ford at $9,000.

Nov. 20 - Vehicles driven by Betty Moore, 68, of Bethel and Donald E. Cross, 71, of Locke Mills collided on Route 26 near Telstar High School. Damage to Moore's vehicle was estimated at $250; to Cross's, $3,000.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity.

Pay-per-bag

You get a more rational and level-headed response (than at a Town Meeting)," said Selectman John Thurston.

The board took no formal action on pay-per-bag, but instructed Town Manager Madeleine Henley to gather and update the research the town has already collected on question.

Other options

The board also reviewed the town's solid waste contracts and set the following guidelines for Town Madeleine Henley in negotiating new contracts:

-- if pay-per-bag is adopted, the company doing the pick-up will be responsible for enforcing the relevant regulations.

-- if the final disposal point changes, mileage and tipping fees will be open for renegotiation.

-- Henley must review the fee schedule to ensure that it is consistent with what other towns are paying.

-- contract renewals will be for one year, with the option for renegotiation at any time.

Newry, Hanover fees down

The selectmen also approved substantially reduced transfer station fees for the neighboring towns of Newry and Hanover.

The reduction, Henley said, "is directly attributable to a reduction in demolition and construction debris."

Newry, which uses the Bethel transfer station for construction debris and white goods, will pay $1,738 in 1995, compared to $3,404 in 1994.

Hanover, which uses the station for the same items as Newry, and for household trash, will pay $10,302 in 1995, compared to $22,783 in 1994.

Crime Bill

ering applying for funds.

But the S.O. may not qualify under the "Cops Fast" program, Herrick said, because the county's population is over 50,000.

"We're looking into it," Herrick said. "What I want to be looking at is one person to be hired as a juvenile/community policeman. Someone to work with communities with juvenile crime problems and other things."

"The need for the position is there," he said. "There is a consistent need for someone to handle juvenile crimes. That person could also possibly teach the DARE program. It could be of great value to the citizens of Oxford County."

The town of Andover is also gathering more information on the program.

The town currently has one part-time constable, who also serves on the Rumford Police Department.

Andover selectman Hal Frazier told his fellow selectmen last week that better police visibility might make the elderly citizens in the town feel better.

Violations

Higher fines needed?

Woodstock selectmen also discussed last week increasing the town's fine for individuals who do not secure the proper permits before they build.

It is rare in Woodstock that people don't come to the town's Planning Board before they build, Maxfield said. But those who don't come before the board should be fined more, he argued.

The issue was brought to the forefront last week when selectmen discussed a violation by Richard and Gloria Fleming.

"They came into the Town Office about six weeks ago," Maxfield said, "and I told them what they needed before they could build. Now the well, septic system, footings and forms for the basement are in, with no building permit. They do have a plumbing permit."

The Flemings filed for a permit last Monday, and the selectmen called the Planning Board into their Tuesday meeting for a special session to vote on the building application. The couple was granted a permit.

At the time they submitted the after-the-fact application, Maxfield assessed the late filing penalty of $80, or double the normal $40 fee.

Code Enforcement Officer Mark Stearns told selectmen he felt the fines for after-the-fact applications were not high enough.

"Since I started here there's been a few people I found building without a permit," Stearns said after the meeting. "All the town can do now is double the permit fee, and I don't think that is helping too much. It would save people a lot of time and aggravation if they'd just get the proper permits ahead of time."

Maxfield agreed.

"Stiffer fines would help insure that people get the proper permits," he said. "This has happened before, but very rarely. The Flemings brought it to the forefront."

Selectmen will probably discuss the proposed increase at their next meeting, he said. It's up to the selectmen and not the Planning Board to set the rates, Maxfield said, but selectmen will ask Planning Board members for their opinions.

Development director proposed

By ALISON ALOISIO

The Evans Notch Economic Development "Next Steps Group" outlined general job responsibilities for a potential Bethel area economic development director and brainstormed possible funding sources for the position at a meeting last week.

The panel has been examining whether a one-stop shopping resource center for new and existing businesses would aid in the economic development of the area, and is preparing information for a presentation at a future date to the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

According to Chamber of Commerce President Linda Varrell, board members expressed interest at their last meeting in having the chamber serve as a contact point for economic development information for businesses. They did, however, request more detailed plans from the Evans Notch group, particularly on funding for personnel providing services. Examples of needed services cited by the group included area marketing, technical assistance and community profile and demographic information.

At last week's meeting the Evans Notch panel listed responsibilities, such as conducting a business-needs assessment, organizing marketing, and keeping in contact with realtors, existing businesses, and municipal organizations and officials as part of a basic job description for a future resource center director.

At the suggestion of panel member and Bethel Station developer Heinie Merrill, the group also identified the kinds of key results which area businesses would look for in determing whether a resource center director was worth the investment.

Examples included relocation package, showing evidence that existing businesses are adding employees and filling Bethel's industrial park subdivision with businesses.

Becky Kendall of the Chamber of Commerce said that having a basic information package to send out in response to new business inquiries would help to weed out business proposals not suitable to the area.

"It would save time if and when we have a professional person. We would then only get the serious proposals," she said.

Group members decided to look into the possibility of filling such a position through sources including the Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments, a private consultant, or college graduate programs.

Group leader and SAD #44 Adult Education Director Cathy Newell said that, in her opinion, the panel could probably rule out municipalities as a funding source, at least initially.

"We probably need to look at major business sponsorship," she said. Grants were also suggested as a possibility once a resource center had been established.

KORHONEN GRADUATES FROM JUSTICE ACADEMY

Bruce M. Korhonen of Locke Mills was among 38 officers who recently graduated from the Maine Criminal Ju tice Academy.

Korhonen completed 12 weeks of training at the Municipal-County Basic Police School in Waterville. His study at the academy included such topics as: criminal and traffic law, domestic violence, firearms, sexual assault law, first aid, crime scene processing and emergency vehicle operation.

Korhonen is a member of the Oxford County Sheriff's Department.

Roland G. Castonguay of OCSD was also a graduate.

Hikers' car is trashed, torched

By WENDY HANSCOM

A Quebec car parked in Grafton Notch State Park burned Sunday evening. The vehicle was apparently vandalized and then set on fire.

When Newry firefighters arrived at the Old Speck parking lot, the vehicle was completely engulfed, according to Deputy Fire Chief Brad Wight.

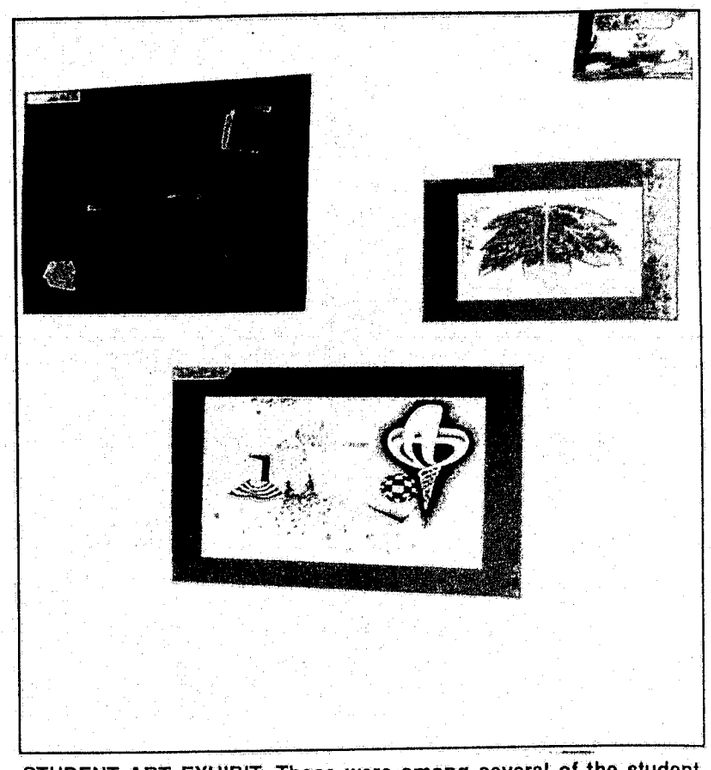
"A truck driver saw the flames and stopped at Owen Wight's house (about four miles away) to report it," Wight said. "We think the car was parked there while they were hiking on the Appalachian Trail. There was no one around. There was a tent, camping gear and clothes in the car."

Before the car went up in flames, Wight said, it looked like someone had taken a hammer to it, breaking the windows and denting the body.

An Oxford County Sheriff's Department Deputy is investigating the fire, but was unavailable for comment Tuesday.

Car vandalism in the state park is fairly common, but the summer of 1994 was quiet, according to park worker Matthew Hodgdon.

"We had very little (vandalism) overall this summer," Hodgdon said. "In mid-summer some cars got their windows smashed. But it was quiet compared to most summers."



STUDENT ART EXHIBIT--These were among several of the student art works on display Saturday at the Explorations program's end-of-the-session exhibit at the Summit Hotel. "It was really well attended," said program director Arla Patch. "It's an opportunity for kids to benefit from having people admire their work." Student works on display included pastels, tinsel paintings, felt-sewn pictures, dried flower collages, linoleum prints, pointillism drawings, clear acetate souvenir boxes, mobiles, "folk" paintings and line drawings. The next Exploration session begins after February vacation. Anyone who wants more information on the program can call Patch at 665-2224. About of one-third of the students in the program have financial assistance and scholarships are available. (Photo by Alison Aloisio)

November Is National Alzheimer's Disease Month

There is no longer any doubt that Alzheimer's disease is one of the most important social and medical issues facing the country today. In recent months, the news media have continued to report medical and scientific breakthroughs that have shed more light on the mysteries that surround this terrible killer. And while a cure is still not imminent, Alzheimer's disease has become a part of the public consciousness as it claims victims in increasing numbers.

The impact of Alzheimer's disease on society is staggering. An estimated four million Americans suffer from Alzheimer's disease, and 250,000 new cases are diagnosed every year. If the current trends continue, as many as 14 million people could develop Alzheimer's disease by the middle of the next century. In other words, one out of two individuals who are part of the "baby boom" generation could fall victim to Alzheimer's disease as they reach their senior years.

The cost of Alzheimer's has also skyrocketed. The cost of care and treatment for Alzheimer's patients has topped $82.7 billion, according to a recent report, and these numbers are most probably conservative. As more people become affected, these costs will undoubtly go even higher. The simple fact is that until a cure for this disease is found the situation will only become worse.

To increase the public's understanding of Alzheimer's disease, Congress has designated November as "National Alzheimer's Disease Month." This advisory, produced by the American Health Assistance Foundation, has been provided to you so that you can share the enclosed information with your readers. The general information, background data, camera-ready article, and pre-screened photos are materials you can use to raise the level of understanding of Alzheimer's in your community--during the month of November and throughout the year ...

SAD44 Board of Directors

Privatization is on the agenda

By WENDY HANSCOM

The SAD44 School Board will vote later this month on whether or not the district should invest time and money in researching privatization.

The district superintendent gave a brief report last week on his recent research on privatization -- specifically on what types of services school districts across the country are asking independent contractors to provide.

SAD44 is already using private companies for some services, according to superintendent Ronald Jenkins.

The district contracts out the maintenance of electrical and heating systems at the Telstar complex and at the Crescent Park School, he said.

Other school systems in the country use private custodial, food and bus services, management teams, Chapter 1 staff, teaching staff and other support services, Jenkins said.

There are a number of legal issues to be addressed, Jenkins said, especially when working with local unions.

If the School Board were to turn the entire running of its schools over to a private group, he said, state law might require dissolving the SAD.

"Going into this research I would admit there was no question what side of the issue I'd be on, and I still believe there may be a number of pitfalls," Jenkins said. "But in reading the articles on this, there's a number of interesting points to look at."

Jenkins read excerpts on privatization from several articles from national educational publications and passed those articles out to School Board members.

Bethel director Merton Brown asked that the board discuss at its next meeting whether or not the district should continue to investigate possible privatization options.

"My guess is the only reason we'd explore this is for a better bang for the buck," Brown said after last week's meeting. "They might do some stuff that would stretch our funds and open some money up for other programs that have been eliminated. I just want to see one of these company's proposal. We may already be doing the best thing right now. I don't know."

School Board chairman Margaret Hand said she thought taxpayers might be unwilling to see their tax money going into a private business' pocket.

"The have to make a profit somehow," Hand said, "or they wouldn't be in the business. Most of the time they come in and lay off people. We've taken years to build up a bus, maintenance and kitchen staff. As far as I'm concerned, they're the best people we could find."

"As far as teachers and administrators, I'm not sure what it involves," she said. "We have control now. If an outside company comes in, when people complain to us, we couldn't go to the person. We'd have to go through the company. We can fire the company, but then where does that leave us."

Other business

Telstar chemical abuse coordinator Rodney Abbott also updated the board last week about what the district offers for substance abuse programs.

Abbott reviewed figures from a 1992 survey of student substance use. He plans to conduct another survey in the spring, he said.

Abbott also recommended that the board's Policy Committee take a look at its tobacco use guidelines.

Currently students found in possession of or smoking tobacco on school grounds are suspended for three days, Abbott said.

He would prefer, he said, that students were also given the option of staying in school and entering into some type of smoking-cessation program.

The board also made several personnel appointments, and awarded the district's fuel oil contract to Brooks Bros. of Bethel, which was the low bidder.

SMH Christmas Tree lighting

Celebrating the 12th annual tradition, the Stephens Memorial Hospital Auxiliary will light the Christmas tree in front of the hospital to welcome the holiday season in the Oxford Hills. At 5 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 7, the community is invited to share the holiday spirit at the tree lighting ceremony, which will take place in front of Stephens Memorial Hospital. The hospital auxiliary will serve hot chocolate, coffee and cookies to all those who attend. The festivities will include music and carol singing and will once again feature the Oxford Hills High School's Brass Ensemble and the Vikettes and Viking Voices, conducted by Mrs. Cynthia Wescott. For those who cannot attend, Norway Savings Bank and WOXO will sponsor WOXO's live radio broadcast from the hospital.

The tree-lighting tradition began 12 years ago, when the auxiliary began selling lights on the commemorative tree. The proceeds from the tree lights, which are purchased by members of the community in memory or in honor of a loved one or friend, are used to buy equipment for the Norway hospital. The lights are purchased for $5 each and may be 12 years of honoring and memorializing members of the Oxford Hills community. Anyone who would like to remember or honor someone special, may purchase and designate a special light through Dec. 31. Lights may be purchased in the Stephens Memorial Hospital coffee shop, through any auxiliary member, at Preb's Pharmacy in Bethel, or by calling Mrs. H.O. Cornwall at 743-2568, Mrs. Gordon Smith at 743-2408, Mrs. Joan Cummings at 743-2602, Mrs. Barbara Douglass at 824-2229, Mrs. Winona Chase at 743-6376, Marcia O'Neil at 665-2172.

AES SELLING TREE LIGHTS

The Andover Elementary School is taking donations for Christmas tree lights on the common.

Every year a tree on the town common is decorated with Christmas lights by the Andover Firemen's Association. This year, AES students will seek sponsors from each light to raise money for the Andover Parent Teacher Group.

When a light is sponsored, a card will be placed next to it on the tree showing who the light is dedicated to or in honor of and the sponsor's name.

For more information call the school at 392-4381. To sponsor a light send cash or a check to the Andover School, P.O. Box 70, Pine Street, Andover, Maine, 04216, Attn: Christmas Fund-raiser.

GREENWOOD HISTORICAL SOCIETY MEETS

The Greenwood Historical Society met for the regular meeting on Wednesday evening, Nov. 2, with president Joan Kimball presiding. There were 14 members present.

It was decided at the meeting to have the piano, located at the town hall, tuned.

At the next meeting, on Dec. 7, a potluck supper will precede the meeting at 6:30 p.m. and be followed by the usual auction. Everyone is expected to bring something for the supper and a Christmas gift, wrapped and unmarked, for the auction.

BETHEL SENIOR CITIZENS

Bethel Senior Citizens met at the Masonic Hall in Bethel on Nov. 9 with 81 present.

President Helen Saunders had several announcements and reports were read. A moment of silence was held for Madge Vogt, who died recently.

Important dates for the holiday season will be: Rotary luncheon at the Legion Hall at Bethel on Dec. 20 at noon; Christmas dinner and program with gifts will be at Madison's in Rumford, cost $6, bring a gift marked for man or woman, social hour at 5 p.m., dinner at 6.

Birthdays celebrated were Ernest Angevine, Roland Annis, Lawrence Bailey, Frances Bennett, Norris Brown, Richard Carter, Annie Crockett, Robert Davis, Doris Parent, Ruby Rolfe, Eva Schools and Ethel Ward.

EMPLOYEE OF THE YEAR--Bethel Savings Bank has named Mary Ellen Hadley as Employee of the Year. She was also recognized with a 15-year service pin at a recent Employee Recognition Dinner. Bank President Phil Jackson presented the award.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

One of the highlights of the coming holiday season for the Unit will be the lighting of Christmas trees on the grounds of the American Legion Hall in Locke Mills. Two of the trees will be lit with bulbs purchased by individuals or groups in honor or memory of any veteran. The third tree will be for lights in memory or honor of the family members of veterans. This is a project which was started last year and the response was excellent.

The lights are $2 each and may be purchased by contacting the committee members: Martha Stowell at 824-3785, or Evanna Davis at 824-2344. Any other member you might care to contact could also take your request. Funds realized from these sales will be used to purchase Christmas gifts for the 12 veterans now at Ledgeview Nursing Home and also those at Togus V.A. facility or the Maine Veterans Homes. Bulbs may be purchased through the month of December.

The lighting of these trees is scheduled for Dec. 1 at 7 p.m. A meeting will follow.

The annual family Christmas Party is scheduled for Dec. 8, with a 6 p.m. supper, followed by a distribution of gifts to children age 10 and under. The gifts will be purchased by the Auxiliary if they are notified of the number, sex and ages of children who will be attending. For older children, parents or grandparents might wish to bring some gift to be placed on the tree. There will be bingo playing later with gifts as prizes. Should there be a bad storm on the 8th, the event will be postponed to the 15th.

At the most recent meeting, Nov. 17, members voted donations to Opportunity Farm, Christmas for Children, the gift shops at the Togus V.A. Hospital and at the Maine Veterans Homes, also to assist the Locke Mills Union Church with their Christmas baskets for local shut-ins.

There will be only one monthly meeting of the Unit for December, January, and February. The meeting is scheduled for the first Thursday of the month so that, in the event of inclement weather, it can be postponed to the third Thursday.

After the program at the Post home on Veteran's Day, several members joined Post members in a visit to the veterans who reside at Ledgeview Nursing Home. A few minutes were spent with each of them as well as with other friends and acquaintances there.

At the monthly County Council meeting in Bethel, on the 15th, six Jackson-Silver members attended and were deeply touched by the program to honor men from Maine who are still listed as POW/MIA. The next meeting will be at South Paris on Dec. 21, with an exchange of gifts. Note that this is a Wednesday instead of the usual Tuesday.

The Calvary Congregational Church is hosting a concert of Gospel Music presented by Diane Muise of Auburn. She was recently voted the 1993 Gospel Singer and the 1993 Songwriter of the Year by the Maine Country Music Association. The concert will be held Saturday, Nov. 26.

The Andover Elementary School is holding a Christmas fund raiser from Nov. 17 to Dec. 2, they are seeking sponsors for each light lit-up on the town Christmas Tree. Patrons would sponsor a light for $1 each, dedicating it in honor of, in memory of, to congratulate someone or to thank someone, etc. If you do not have a student in your home, but would like to sponsor a light, please call the school to place your order, for more information please call 392-4381. The schools first quarter honor roll has been announced. Fourth grade: Honors--Shannon Fyrberg, Craig Angevine, Katie Swasey, Freddy Bailey and Jenna Poor. Fifth grade: High honors--Ben Sabin, Michael Sabin, Erika Davis; honors--Christina Downs, Angie Kreiton. Sixth grade: Honors--Lyrra Yates, Eric Swasey, Jonathen Downs, Lynsey Brown, Denise Scotti. The fourth-sixth graders held a spelling bee followed by a math bee. Congratulations to Ben Sabin for winning the spelling bee. Mrs. Richardson's fourth-graders were victorious in the math bee.

Congratulations to Dennis and Karen Pierce of Roxbury for the birth of a son, Nicholas Wayne, born on Nov. 16. Nicholas joins a brother Jeffery who is three. Maternal grandparents are Wayne and Marilyn Morton, maternal great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Lester White. Mrs. Nancy Pierce of Rumford is paternal grandmother, paternal great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Everett Rowe of Massachusetts.

The hunters have had better luck of late -- 34 deer have been tagged in town. Since September 13 bear have been tagged.

Hoping everyone enjoys the Thanksgiving holiday.

A reminder that the s.s. 60 meal-site is at the elementary school every Thursday (that the school is in session. The senior citizens meet at 11:30 for their lunch. Call Betty Moore at 392-1381 or Edna White at 392-1366 for more information.

PENNIES WANTED FOR PLAYGROUND EQUIPMENT--Tia Sprague (left), Abigail Hutchins and Harley Gordon of the West Bethel Children's Center roll pennies donated to the center's penny drive. The center hopes to raise at least $500 to upgrade playground equipment. Penny containers have been placed at: Andy's Kitchen, Backstage restaurant, Big Apple, Bethel Savings Bank, Bob's Corner Store, Brown's Mobil, Breau's, Breau's Too, The Fashion Basket, Key Bank, Preb's, Red Top Diner, Village Store and The Wild Rose. Large donations of pennies may be dropped off at the school. The drive will continue to the end of the year. (Photo by Sue Gordon)

The Holiday Dinner of Maine Chapter 7 "1918 Club" met at Valley's in Portland on Nov. 12 with 127 in attendance.

Treasurer Robert Webb was presented a plaque for all his work for the club since he joined in 1978. He has served as president and since 1985 as treasurer. Harold Sanborn, Cape Elizabeth, did the presentation.

Officers for 1995 and 1996 were elected as follows: president, Violet Swain, East Andover; vice president, William Smith, Andover; secretary, Mary Philbrick, Kennebunkport; treasurer, Robert Webb, Westbrook; newsletter editor, Anne Arnold, Brunswick.

Centerpieces for all the tables were donated by members. Three long tables held the many gifts, given by members, for children up to 12. Mrs. Marion Chesley, "Clearing House" of Portland Press Herald will distribute these gifts throughout the area. This is one of the projects the club does each year.

A musical program concluded the meeting. A luncheon was served at noon.

The November meeting of the East Andover Community Club was held at the home of Charlotte Sennett, North Rumford. Lila Farrington, Rumford, was co-hostess. Both ladies were charter members of the club, which was organized in 1938, and Violet Swain is the only other charter member. One of the charter members, Minnie Hines, died Oct. 28. She had resided in Rumford for the past 10 years.

Reports were read and accepted. Plans were made for the annual meeting to be held with Dolly Jones on Dec. 12.

A special guest was Helena Goodwin, a former member. She has sold her house on the Farmer's Hill Road and now resides in Mexico. She was presented a cake with the members' best wishes. She won the door prize.

Members received Thanksgiving gifts from their secret pals.

After a delicious luncheon a social afternoon was enjoyed by the 15 members present.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Swain spent a few days last week with their son Rodney and family in Jericho, Vt.

Where are all the little birds? Hope it's because of the mild temperatures, until the last two mornings, they have found plenty of bare ground sustenance. These lowteens, frosty mornings are grim reminders!

We enjoyed seeing the pictures on Channel 6 news Thursday evening featuring a 100th birthday party in Sebago where 96-year-old Mrs. Millie Wentzell was one of the invited guests. You looked great, Millie!

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Preble of Newburyport, Mass.,, were at their cottage over the weekend.

Bill and Phyllis Bancroft were in Norway Wednesday for his medical appointment. He will not undergo toe surgery at this time.

Bob Folsom is building a new garage next to his cottage.

Recent visitors here have been Mrs. Dottie Adams of Hanover and the Rev. Jean Bass.

A pleasant and beautiful Thanksgiving to all! God's giving deserves our thanksgiving.

Judith Grover Tent 17 Daughters of Union Veterans met on Monday, Nov. 14, with 17 members present. It was reported that two members attended the American Legion Veterans' Day program. Communications were letters from Dept. Pres. Gail Butterfield and Dept. Pat. Inst. Lesley Dean and two thank-you notes. First, nomination of officers was held as follows: Pres., Elsie Bonney; Sr. Vice Pres., JoAnn Crockett; Jr. Vice Pres., Stacy House; Chaplain, Elena Noyes; Treas., Edith Hathaway; Council members: #1, Althea Stevens, #2, Beatrice Farnum, #3, Verna Swan; Pat. Inst., Kathleen McAllister. Forty-seven calls were reported. The next meeting will be Dec. 12 for election of officers and Christmas party. There will be a tasting party and exchange of gifts. It was reported 665 Halloween cards and bags of candy were sent by the area D.U.V. tents to Veterans' Homes in Searborough, Caribou and Augusta and to Togus. Next project will be items for the Togus Gift Shop.

At the Woodstock Historical Society meeting, in November, the organization agreed to purchase some supples. Olive Risko donated a copy of the Grange book by Stan Howe for the museum and also gave the research report. The society decided to have a potluck supper at 6 p.m. for the December meeting, with exchange of gifts at 7 p.m. President Evelyn Bean gave some pictures. The program was presented by Ken Whitman on emergency preparedness. The society reminds you that Maine has had many famous writers and artists. Curator Larry Billings has given a large art print to the museum. They note Gilbert Highet once said: "History is large and deep." He also claimed in some places in the world "Trouble grows like grass."

Ray and Shawn Crockett were overnight guests of their grandparents, Ken and Alice Hoyt, on Thursday night. Joseph and Maggie Hoyt visited their father, Jim Hoyt, over the weekend.

Bryant Pond Hour on Channel IV TV is at 4 p.m. on Tuesdays. A fellowship dinner was held Sunday after the morning service at the Baptist Church.

Happy Thanksgiving Day to everyone!

Curator Larry Billings, Assistant Curator Louisa Noyes, and Registrar Kathleen McAllister all do things for the historical museum. It requires their attention and the support of all the society members. The society invites people and ideas. It preserves our heritage and culture and works to improve the community and area. Everyone will gain from this.

By COLISTA MORGAN

A short time ago I had a ride through Richardson Hollow, a place I hadn't been for a long time.

It wasn't deep summer, but it was a time of sunshine, where mountain peaks stood out like dusky silhouettes. The sun poured its lucid gold everywhere.

It brought to mind a day that Ruth and I went there in search of the remains of a farm home where the Milletts once lived. I knew exactly where the road entered the forest by an old wood road, otherwise we had nothing to go by.

I recalled the rustle of leaves as we walked.

We crossed a brook, where the water glistened cool and clear.

We looked for signs of farming, old apple trees, stone walls, and open fields. We took a side road but found a roughly piled jumble of rotting logs from a lumber operation, so we retraced our steps to the wood road and continued on. We soon found a clearing and stone walls. We were then confident, for who but the early New Englanders tried to use rocks from their fields to build stone walls?

Our next discovery was an opening and a lovely maple tree in full color. There we found the cellar hole where the house stood.

There was an old coffee pot of blue enamel. I pictured it exhaling clouds of pungent glory. That no doubt belonged to the last family to live there before the place burned.

Many poplars grew around the old cellar, the largest in the cellar near the bulkhead.

We explored more, then left for another climb, but first photographing the lone maple in its beautiful color -- a souvenir which I still have and looked up in my album after my ride home so recently. Memories, they are so precious.

Rena Curtis had many visitors on Sunday, three of her sons and their families and one daughter and family and two friends, Don and Carla Whitemore.

On Thursday and Friday, Ann Holt was in Boston and other places in Massachusetts in regard to her work.

Holly the Collie is much better and happy to be home.

We have new neighbors who have moved into the house owned by F. Piccirillo. We welcome them.

Milton Inman was at his camp in Albany last week for a couple of days of hunting.

On Nov. 14, I visited Lettie Brooks with three other cousins. All of us called on Ruby Emery, Bryant Pond. It was a nice day in every way.

News time again. How fast that day comes around. Now, where to begin? I got home from Massachusetts on Monday and was faced with meetings for three nights in a row.

The Stoneham Knight Riders met at the Fire Station on Tuesday evening, with 14 members present and Eben Harmon, president, presiding. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and accepted. Discussion was made about the trails. Bill Hunt said some new trails would have to be made and permission received from the landowners before we can go across their land.

A new and bigger generator is needed, as the Club House will be open to the public and members more this winter for lunches and warmth. The generator they now have is for sale, and if anyone is interested in it -- just please call Charlie Flanders at 743-8227 for more information on that.

The club will be going to The Forks (Northern Outdoors) on Feb. 3, 4 and 5. Those who have not signed up yet must please contact Anne Wyman at 928-3661 soon. The club now has a brand new ladies room. How nice! They now have raffle tickets on sale for winning snowmobiles, or dealer gift certificates, or hotel weekend packages for two. Drawings will be held at the MSA annual meeting in April. The next meeting will be the potluck supper and Christmas meeting on

East Stoneham

Dec. 13. See you there!

Sunday, Raymond and Misty Files and Raymond, Jr., and Tia from Oxford called on Frances Grant.

On Monday, Nancy Rogers and friend from Connecticut called on her aunt Frances Grant.

The big, beautiful dog that townspeople were wondering about has found a new friend at the Shugars' household.

On Wednesday night, there was a good turnout at the Oxford County United Parish meeting at the East Stoneham Church. Both churches (North Waterford and East Stoneham) held separate meetings and then met again to give their decision, which was to try and keep a full-time minister. There are many more benefits to this plan to the community than the other options.

It was mentioned that Ken Carstens of Albany, who ministers to the church at Hunts Corner, is ill, and that it would be nice to send cards to him. Mr. Bickett of Fryeburg was the moderator of the Parish meeting. Stoneham members voted to pay what they could on a year's basis with North Waterford doing the shortfall from the Parish funds if needed. There is a stewardship drive on now, and hopefully members of town will agree that the town needs a church and a minister and will act accordingly.

This has been another nice fall day. How much longer can these nice days last for us. It is frosty nights and mornings, though.

Grace Nelson is at home after being away to Florida for a week.

Say, have any of you readers ever had chocolate covered popcorn? If you haven't, you're missing a good treat. I didn't think it sounded so great, but, boy, was I mistaken! The Cub Scouts are selling it in their popcorn sales, and we were the first ones to get a delivery. It's another thing to hide from Der lieben Oma as she doesn't have so much willpower!

So. Woodstock

By ANDREA WING

I'm sorry I didn't have any news last week. I've been laid up with a cold and flu and have been in bed most of the time. I'm feeling some better this week, so will send along what I have for news.

Sympathy goes out to the family and friends of Carl Howard. Also to the family and friends of Lula Buck.

A couple of important birthdays I missed last time were Heath Poland and Caesar Morgan.

Recently, I had the pleasure of having lunch at the office where I worked. We ordered Chinese food and ate at the office. Laura Rand, from another county, was in the office that week, so she joined Marcia Morse and myself. Had a good time catching up on things.

Ellsworth Hathaway is working on improving his mill here in South Woodstock. Ellsworth heads out to the mill almost every day early in the morning. Joyce Hathaway is still walking to Trap Corner almost every day. She's really looking skinny. Joyce says she feels a lot better and goes dancing whenever she can. Keep it up, Joyce.

The beaver are really doing a job clearing out bushes near Bruce and Cathy Thurlow's home. They have managed to make a huge pile in the field, persons have stopped to watch them at work lately.

Oxford Hills didn't have school last Thursday, so I took Sarah Hart around the Norway-Paris-Oxford area to get ads for the yearbook that she is helping on. Sarah stayed with us a couple of nights last week. We always enjoy having her stay, as we don't get to see her very often now that she goes to Oxford Hills.

Students making the honor roll at Telstar Middle School from this area are: Caitlin Gallagher, Amy Kennison, Lacy Phillips, Jeffrey Chandler, Emily Phillips and Carla Harlow. Also, students making the honor roll from South Woodstock that attend Woodstock Elementary School are Darcy Tyler, Sheri Curley, Kristina Koskela, Camden Elliott-Williams, Crystal Cash and Rachel Ecker-Polak. Keep up the good work!

I took a ride by Patty and Leslie Thurlow's log house the other day to see a new sign that had been put up. Patty said they'd had it a long time but just got around to putting it by their driveway. It is a very nice sign with a painting of their house on one side and a team of horses on the other. Mickey Liimatta did the painting.

Joan Poland has improved since her fall when she broke her arm this fall. She is now back working at Perham's Gem Store almost full-time. I took her to Dr. Smith's yesterday and she doesn't have to go back for a year.

Marta Clements took another trip to see her beautiful granddaughter, Carolyn Anita, in Baltimore, Md., last weekend. I'm afraid Marta will be making a lot of trips to Maryland for a while. I don't blame her, I'd do the same.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society reports that he has given a very large art print to the museum. The December meeting of the society will be a potluck supper at 6 p.m. and a meeting and exchange of gifts at 7 p.m. Mr. Billings recently listened to all of Beethoven's symphonies again. He also has been studying classical music and composers for quite a while. He also adds that the society encourages you to read British and American literature. Novels, plays, short stories, and poetry can all be interesting. We can all benefit from Woodstock Historical Society. Mr. Billings has also given a Limoges plate to the society. This is one example of the fine collection of antiques in the museum. The society gathers the best of our heritage to preserve the future. We benefit from it today. Thus past, present, and future come together at the society.

Quote of the Week: "I've learned that middle age is the best time of my life -- so far."

PREPARING FOR TEA--Dorothy Wooster (left), Lucy Nordahl and Carol Hatch work on a Santa wall hanging, which will be sold at the West Parish Congregational Church's annual Christmas Fair. The fair will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. on Dec. 3 at the church. Events include tea, a cookie walk, craft and greens sale and more.

North Newry

By GIL SEELEY

The Newry Mothers' Club met Monday night, the 14th, with only five members present. Well, I guess you can't make them come if they don't think it's important. The meeting was opened with sub-presidents Karlene Bachelder and Gil Seeley, who read an opening prayer about Thanksgiving. Secretary-treasurer Olive Anderson gave the roll call, read the notes of the last meeting, gave the financial report, etc. Happy Birthday wishes were extended to Peg Wight, Mary Morin and Doris Parent, who were born in November. Seven Thanksgiving baskets were made and distributed to the shut-ins and elderly. The mystery prize was won by Olive Anderson. The next meeting will be Dec. 12, at 6:30 p.m., with a potluck supper and exchange of Xmas gifts. The meeting adjourned and snacks were provided by Olive Anderson and Gil Seeley. A blind auction was enjoyed instead of the bingo game, as previously planned, because we could not get the bingo cards, etc. They were locked up in the main office, I guess.

Bill and Sylvia Wight, M.S.A. director-alternate of the Windy Valleys Sno-mobile Club were at the directors' meeting in Augusta on the 15th.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Sylvia Wight, Bea Lowell and Olive Anderson of the "Newry Bowling Gang" were at the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, one day last week. Jim Anderson was a guest. On the overall scores, Betsy was high on the triples with an average of 991/3, lacking only two pins to make 300. She also was high on the singles with one string of 108. Of the "Righties," Bea was high on both the triples and singles. Betsy had three strikes and three spares, Karlene had four spares and one strike, Gil had two spares and Bea had one strike and one spare.

Ras and Karlene Bachelder were in Stratton visiting with Ras's father, who is in his nineties and still going strong. They also saw a few other relatives and friends.

I received a surprise invitation from Bill and Sylvia Wight to have supper, of delicious baked salmon, baked potato, salad, pie and coffee, one day last week. Thank you friends -- mmmmmgood!

The Newry Recreation Committee and the town's Mothers' Club are teaming up to welcome in the holiday season on Sunday, Dec. 4. Bring your kids (big and small) to a cookie decorating party from 4 to 5 p.m. at the R.C. Foster Municipal Building. All cookies and decorating supplies will be provided.

A tree-lighting ceremony will follow at 5 p.m. Gather around the tree to sing Christmas carols. All are invited back inside for a cold potluck supper. Please bring sandwiches or other easy-to-eat finger food. Hot drinks will be provided by the Recreation Committee. See you there.

Too much pumpkin? How about some muffins? --1 1/2 cup flour, 2 tsp. baking powder, 1/2 tsp. cinnamon, 1/4 cup margarine, 1 egg, 1 cup pumpkin, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp nutmeg, and 1/2 cup milk. Mix well and put in muffin tins. Bake 20 minutes at 400 degrees. Try it, you'll like it.

Locke Mills

By LORRAINE MILLS

It has been a really busy week for me. We had meetings at the church Friday and Saturday with John Ludlam's brother Roland, who is pastor at the Church on the Rock in St. Albans, Vt. The youth pastor and assistant also came with four people from their youth group, three girls and a boy. He played guitar and they sang. Unfortunately, Pastor Roland had to leave early due to a family emergency and had to take two of the girls back due to their having brought only two cars, but the ones left carried on admirably, and Pastor Roland was able to report back that his daughter was doing fine, physically at least, after having a miscarriage. It is always hard to lose a hoped-for child, especially the first grandchild. Anyhow, the meetings were great.

Sunday, I spent most of the day in Rumford Center, first at the church and then at the pastor's, as the committee in charge of the Thanksgiving dinner was to meet that evening and I don't like driving so much in one day.

Tuesday, I spent with Linda Ruffin, cleaning the church and doing some shopping.

Wednesday and Thursday, I was in Norway keeping various appointments.

Friday, as I write this, I am in the process of cooking a turkey for the free Thanksgiving dinner tomorrow that our church is putting on at Mexico Town Hall. Pastor Rob and Denise were heading it up, but he sort of wanted to go to a service conference in Toronto. I say "sort of" because he felt he would be running out on us, but we all said, "Go," and I'm sure they are having a great time, and we will survive the dinner. If we do, you no doubt will get an account next week, and I'll try to be as brief as I can so you all out there will not be praying that I don't survive! I got my four apple pies done last night and that was a relief, because I was beginning to wonder when I was ever going to find the time.

Correction: Bill and Debbie Goff's daughter is Kirsten, nicknamed Kirsty, not Kinty as it said last week.

I got some news this morning, expected but still unwanted, that my dear friend, Anne Magnuson, died Monday in Illinois. She had battled cancer for over 30 years. I am pleased that she lived long enough to see her second granddaughter born, but the rest is a bummer.

Vera Cross is sporting about in a new GEO Metra, or maybe it would be better to say she is riding about in a sporty new car. It is a pretty blue and is just the right size for Vera. I know, I liked my little Honda, and the Aspen seems huge compared to it, but I won't complain. I have transportation and that's all that's important.

And speaking of complaints, does anyone have any about this fall weather? (Skiers may not answer; we all know how they must be feeling.) Of course pessimistic me wonders what it is going to be like in February and March, but right now I'm enjoying and it sure is better on the pocketbook.

I don't know where everyone is this morning, but if you are out there making news I expect to hear from you for next week's paper so I won't have to feel like I'm writing my diary every week.

Hill and Audet, with support from friends and neighbors, helped raise money for the plaque, which was placed at Arsenault's home. Friends and family of Arsenault, from Farmington, Andover and Rumford, attended the recent dedication ceremony.

West Paris

By MIRIAM INMAN

A birthday celebration was held last Sunday at the home of Joyce Lamb for Peggy Lamb, Paula Lamb and the hostess, Joyce. Others present were John Beane of Palermo and Ken Lamb, Kenny, Kyle and Caleb Lamb of Auburn.

Louvie Coffin was the guest of honor at her home recently to celebrate her 90th birthday. The hostesses were her daughter, Eleanor Hutchinson, and granddaughter, Julie Veysey. Approximately 45 signed the guest list. Family also attending were Albert Hutchinson and Douglas of Appleton; Terry Veysey and Kriston of Yarmouth; a cousin, Esther Coffin of Portland; and Darrell and Joyce Veysey of Bangor. Louvie received lovely flowers and gifts.

Sally Berry was in Rochester, N.Y., for a few days recently, at the home of her parents, Larry and Laura Davis. She visited with her friend Holly Johnson.

William Aridas returned to Holbrook, N.Y., on Saturday after spending the weekend at the Vernon Inman's.

Forward Fellowship will have a 6 p.m. potluck supper and meeting at the home of Peg Perham on Monday, Nov. 28.

To all the people -- friends, neighbors and family -- who made my 90th birthday such a celebration, my sincere and heartfelt thanks. -- Louvie P. Coffin.

Thirty-six of the 75 registered voters cast their ballots at the Town Office Tuesday. Violette Bernier and Arline Bernier served as ballot clerks. Bob Brown was present as warden.

High winds, low temperatures and flurries have arrived, but there is still enough green grass in the fields to keep a cow content.

The hunters' luncheon scheduled for Saturday was canceled at the recent Ladies' Aid meeting. The supper slated for Nov. 19 will be served potluck at the Ladies' Aid building.

Walt Lombard of southern New Hampshire and his grandson Doug Farrah of Virginia are at their Backstreet hunting camps in hopes to bag the big ones.

Ron and Betty Jordan were at their home here briefly. Ron is recovering from a serious operation.

The roads in Upton are receiving care in readiness for winter. Contractors from West Paris removed rusty culverts and replaced them with shiny new ones. Some gravel was hauled on Dweller Hill to fill the washboardy grooves.

West Paris

By RUSSELL YATES

I helped Peggy some, but she got a real good Sunday dinner for all. Our guests were Emerson and Loretta Merrill, Jim and Mary Merrill with their two little girls Kayla and Lyndsay, all from West Bethel, also Samantha Murch from Waterford. This was Loretta's birthday and Peggy had made her a carrot cake as a birthday cake. It was delicious. I won't tell you how old Loretta is, but she is now past the half-century age and on her way to qualify as a senior citizen.

We really enjoyed having them all come. The little girls were real good, even to Kayla, who is in a body cast from her waist to her ankles, the result of a broken leg. However, the leg is doing fine and Kayla will soon be on it again. It has been a rough ordeal, both for the parents and for Kayla herself.

Mary Lovejoy reports that both her son and her husband have been lucky hunters this fall, as each got a deer.

Faith Lovejoy went to the football game in Waterville Saturday. The other two children attended the "Spaghetti Mess" at the Mission Congo Church on Satuday evening. Here they eat with different kinds of kitchen utensils.

There will be a dance at the Locke Mills Town Hall on Nov. 16, with music by the Richard Felt Orchestra.

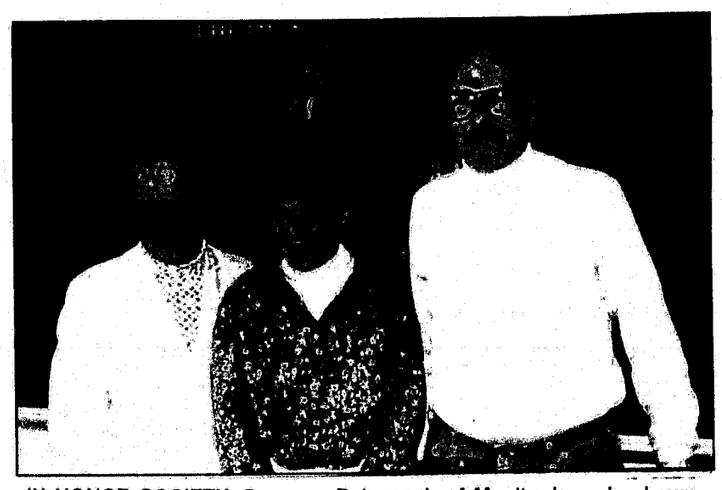
There will be dances at West Paris Grange Hall on the first three Saturdays of December. The second Saturday, Dec. 10, will be Christmas for Kids.

Oxford Pomona No. 2 will meet at Oxford Grange Hall in Welchville on Dec. 6 for their Christmas program. There will not be a supper before the meeting, but there will be refreshments after the meeting. All members attending are asked to bring a gift to be exchanged with a member of the same sex, and worth about $3. Please be sure that your gift is worth the $3.

I was just thinking, doesn't it seem good not to hear those politicians on the TV anymore?

ANDO TOWN OFFICE CLOSED

The Andover Town Office will be closed Friday, Nov. 25 and Tuesday, Nov. 29.



IN HONOR SOCIETY--Suzanne Pylypczuk of Moultonboro is shown following her induction into the Two Year College International Honor Society, Phi Theta Kappa. Suzanne is earning an associate degree in business management at the New Hampshire Technical College in Laconia. Pictured with Suzanne are her parents, Raymond and Louise Seames of Locke Mills.

News from the

The Bethel Library

This year's nominees for the Maine Student Book Award, given annually to the book selected by Maine students in grades four through eight as their favorite book of the year, are on display now at the Bethel Library.

These books have been chosen by Maine librarians and reading teachers because they are examples of outstanding fiction and nonfiction for this age group. Students are encouraged to read all year long from these chosen titles, and they will vote in the spring for their favorite. In addition, every teacher, parent, student, or librarian who completes a review form has the opportunity to share their opinions with the publishers. Among the dozen of titles: "Battle for the Castle" by Winthrop; "Mystery of the Cupboard" by Banks; "It's Our World, Too" by Joose; "Grab Hands and Run" by Temple; "Make Lemonade" by Wolff; "Bones from a Dry Sea" by Dickinson; "Freedom's Children" by Levine; "Heart of a Champion" by Deuker.

Thanks to the following people for generous donations in memory of Louis Paul: William Plummer, Marvin and Joanne Kendall, Warren and Melanie Ellsworth, Olive Head, Hugh and Denise Swan, Dorothy Schmidt, Beverly and Peter Haines, Josephine Kendall, Owen and Sue Wight, John and Fumi Head, Ronald and Marguerite Kendall, Barbara Wheeler, Cross-Country Quilters, Peter and Kathleen Hodgdon, George and Betty Gilbert, Becky Kendall, Mr. and Mrs. David Schmidt, Sylvia Luxton, Jane Luxton, Colleen Boyd, and Arthur and Ruth Gilbert.

Many gift books have been added to the library recently. Buzz and Linda Gamble gave "Winter Days in the Big Woods" by Laura Ingalls Wilder in honor of Kelsey Gamble's fourth birthday, and "Santa Calls" by William Joyce in honor of Sarah Gamble's 10th birthday. Seth and Jonathan Howe presented the library with a copy of "Once Upon a Farm" by Lloyd Crossland, Joyce Morgan, Fern Stearns and Gail Parent in honor of Ethel Ward's 91st birthday. Kenneth and Gwyneth Bohr gave "The Complete Book of Companion Planting" by Bob Flowerdew in honor of Eric Goldberg's birthday. In memory of Bob Lowe, Mona Lowe gave "Moose Country.' Carol and Gary Parker gave "The Christmas Trolls" by Brett in honor of Litty Parker's birthday, and "How to Write Your Own Magazine" in honor of Julia Parker's birthday.

'A HISTORY OF BUCKFIELD'

"A History of Buckfield, Oxford County, Maine, from the Earliest Explorations to ... 1900," by Alfred Cole and Charles F. Whitman, has been reprinted by Higginson Book Company, a publisher of American local history. This book, originally published in 1915, had been unavailable recently.

"A History of Buckfield" covers the social and civic development of the area from the first exploration and settlement in the 1770s. It includes chapters on the pioneers and their ways of life; the town in the Revolutionary and Civil wars; the establishment and progress of schools, churches and the professions; and more. There are also several very interesting old diaries, reminiscences and letters, a section of genealogical sketches, and many illustrations and portraits throughout.

This new reprint, which is 758 pages long, is a facsimile edition, hardbound in high-quality buckram with the title stamped on the spine in gold. It is available by mail from Higginson Book Company, 148N Washington Street, Salem, MA 01970, for $75 per copy, plus $4.50 each for shipping.

BIG SISTER OF THE MONTH--Carol Nielsen of Bethel stands with her little sister Marie. Nielsen was named Big Sister of the month of November by Wendy's Restaurants of Maine. She is a teacher at Meroby Middle School in Mexico. Marie has been her Little Sister for two years. Big Brothers/Big Sister of Oxford County primarily services the Oxford Hills area, but has slowly branched out to the SAD44 area. Carol and Marie have been recognized in in-store displays in the seven Wendy's Restaurants in Maine. For more information on the program, call Julie Hart, director, at 743-2991 or 824-3217.

HEALTHY LIVING

The Physician Assistant

by Rodney C. Kuhl PA-C, Swift River Health Care Center

Just What is a Physician Assistant (PA)?

The profession is already 27 years old. There are more than 10,000 PA's practicing in Family Practice, Primary Care, Surgery, Emergency Room, ENT, and other specialties. There are eight jobs for every graduating PA, but yet many patients are still confused about the role of the PA. Who is this provider? What does s/he do? What kind of training does s/he have?

The Physician Assistant is a medical provider who is trained in clinical skills through a college degree to diagnose and treat the majority of patient illnesses. The PA is not on his/her way to becoming a doctor, being a PA is a career in itself. S/he works with a doctor, assistsing in seeing and treating patients. When a patient has a difficult illness, the physician will be referred to a doctor. When the PA can see and treat most simple illnesses, the physician can spend more time helping the patient with more difficult problems.

PA training is changing all the time. When I was in the United States Air Force, I was expected to have finished two years of the basic college work before entering PA school. The first year of PA school was classroom work. I studied anatomy, physiology, organic chemistry, microbiology, and the clinical courses of dermatology, neurology, gastroenterology, etc. I also studied pediatrics, internal medicine, and gerantology.

The second year of PA school is on-the-job training in which I actually saw patients under close supervision of a physician in family practice, pediatrics, surgery, orthopedics, dermatology, OB/GYN, ENT, and internal medicine clinics. Upon graduation, I was awarded a BS degree in Health Sciences from the University of Oklahoma. Then I sat for the national certification exam, and when I passed, I was a graduate PA ready to start work.

Now the University of New England is starting a PA program which will go all the way to the master's degree level. This program is supposed to be ready to start in the summer of 1995. I encourage anyone who has a desire to become a PA to look into this program.

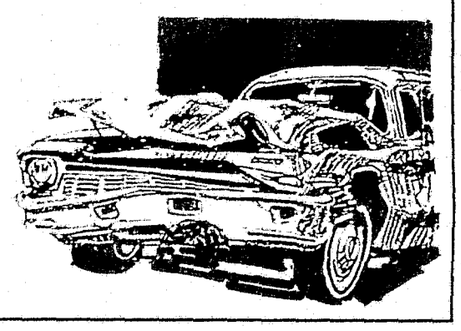
Accessibility is also increased. The PA and doctor working together can see more patients. I work at Swift River Family Health Care Center in Rumford. Much of my daily schedule is left open so I am accessible on a daily basis to patients who need to be seen that day. Therefore, the Physician Assistant is a medical provider working for you, the patient, under the supervision of a physician. The PA is concerned with promoting good health and well being in the community as well as helping sick patients get well.

Are They Fender Benders? Or Neck Benders?

Brought to you by: Dr. Joseph F. DeMarco

With the advent of the automobile, so also came accidents. According to the National Highway Traffic Administration, the National Safety Council and The Center for Statistics and Analysis (1986-1988), Americans are involved in one auto accident for each 10 years of life. In a town of 100,000 people, there will be between 100 to 500 accidents weekly. With an estimated 8 to 10 million Americans being treated annually for symptoms of automobile injuries, the phenomena of "whiplash" remains the topic of heated controversy and the long term study of researchers. Research shows that minor fender benders cause more damage to passengers than to cars, although it may not be obvious to the uninformed. Take for example that during an 8 m.p.h. collision the car receives 2 G's of force, the shoulder receives 4 G's and the head and neck receives 5 G's of force.

Increasing number of "whiplash" injuries have ensued with the development and use of seatbelts. This is due to the fact that lap and shoulder harnesses while snuggly applied will hold the seat and shoulders back- but they do nothing to restrain the head. During a collision force, the unrestrained head suffers the effect of the forces of gravity. In actuality, the force of impact resulting in the whipping and lashing of the head on the spinal column has been magnified by use of the seat belt. With nothing to hold the head in place, it undergoes an extension/flexion rebound affect. As published in the Journal of Biomechanics, in the article The Dynamic Behaivor of the head and Cervical Spine During Whiplash, (1971, pg. 477-490), well respected researchers, McKenzie and Williams explain this as the magnification of accelerated forces. They report that the back of the head strikes the seat back (this is called hyperextension) and then rebounds off the seat back and is whipped forward. The speed of the head is greater as it rebounds off the seat back, (much like a wrestler as he bounces off the ropes). The research reveals that due to the secondary energy called "rebound" compressive hyperflexion: the head will reach an acceleration that is 2 to 2½ times greater than the acceleration of the car.



Facts about Hearing & Hearing Aids

by: Sallie Dunn Chisholm
Beltone Hearing Aid Center

HEARING AIDS ARE NO BIG DEAL

Consumer Protection for Hearing Aid Users

The National Hearing Aid Society supports the rules of the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) for the hearing aid industry, and encourages compliance.

Briefly, these rules require a person to obtain medical evaluation of hearing loss within six months prior to obtaining a hearing aid, or sign a waiver. The waiver provision is included to protect individual rights and freedom of choice. The FDA pointed out that the medical evaluation by a physician is necessary in determining the cause of, and the pathology associated with the patient's hearing loss.

The primary health concern underlying the medical evaluation is not immediately related to any direct risk to a user from the hearing aid itself, but to assure that all medically treatable conditions that may affect hearing are accurately identified and properly treated before a hearing aid is purchased.

The FDA stresses that a hearing aid is not an inherently dangerous device and that the number of persons who will in fact require medical or surgical treatment is relatively small in comparison to the number of individuals who may benefit from amplification.

A qualified hearing aid specialist is required to advise prospective clients to consult promptly with a licensed physician (preferably one who specializes in diseases of the ear) if a prospective user has any otologic condition.

Sweet Dreams?

The average grocery list would give a nutritionist nightmares. Supermarket shoppers spend 8.9 percent more on soft drinks than they do on milk, according to Information Resources, Inc.'s InfoScan service. Ice cream, cookies and candy all rank among the 20 biggest supermarket categories.

The Flu Season

by: Catherine Dorr, RN

We are into the fall season and now is a good time to think about the flu season and what we can do to help ourselves or a family member feel better if we pick up the flu virus. Generally, the flu is seen in the winter months.

Influenza is a virus. So taking antibiotics won't help. What one needs to do is treat the symptoms. You may experience body aches, headache, fatigue, elevated temperature, loss of appetite and a general feeling of "lousiness." Also cough, head stuffiness and sore throat can be associated with the flu. It's very important to get plenty of rest and increase your fluid intake. You may not be hungry, but taking in extra fluids such as juices or water will replace lost body fluid due to the elevated temperature. Hot drinks such as teas or bouillion can be very soothing. Treat the body aches and cold symptoms with over the counter medicines. There is a large variety of remedies available now and your local pharmacist will be more than glad to answer any questions you may have or make suggestions. There are also medicines your health care provider can prescribe that might help in relieving the flu symptoms.

So, if you're one of the unlucky ones who pick up the flu this season, stay home next to the fire with a hot cup of lemon tea, take a pain reliever and know you will eventually get better.

The Concept and Controversy of Nutrition

by: Lee Ferreira, Healthy Eating Advisor

There is a theory which states "you are what you eat"! This definition is indeed food for thought! This literally means that the kinds of food you ingest; whether they consist of proteins, carbohydrates and fats, contribute to your physical health.

There are varied opinions as to what is a proper diet. Does it consist of a high amount of protein and a low amount of carbohydrates; or is it a diet low in protein and high in carbohydrates that is more adequate? What fats are good; saturated or unsaturated? These questions are indeed confusing to the average person.

What has been determined through extensive study and medical research is that a more nutritiously balanced diet would be a program consisting of small amounts of protein (lean meats, fish & legumes); with larger amounts of carbohydrates (starches such as pasta, rice, bread and potatoes) At least 6 to 7 servings of vegetables should be included also on a daily basis; preferably green vegetables such as spinach, broccoli, cabbage, brussel sprouts). Fruits should also be added, 3 to 4 servings daily (2 being of the citrus variety; such as oranges or grapefruit & strawberries because of their vitamin C content.Dairy products should be consumed; the best suggestion would be skim milk, low fat cheeses and yogurt.

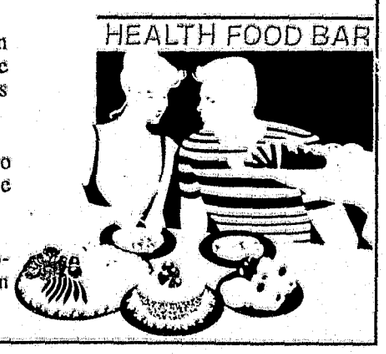
Most athletes eat more carbohydrates (such as aforementioned starches) prior to an event because consumption of these foods enable them to perform their best. This is because when carbohydrates (starches) are absorbed in the bloodstream they change to sugar which then becomes an energy source.

Multiple Vitamins should be taken daily to insure a healthy balance especially if one engages in sports or exercises on a regular basis.

Is it possible then for one to achieve better health today? The answer is an emphatic "Yes"!

Proper nutrition consisting of protein (small amounts) consumption of whole grains and fiber; incorporated with eating a variety of vegetables and fruits and low fat dairy products will enable a person to have a healthier life style. Fats in items such as margarine and mayonnaise, salad dressing) may be used, but in moderation. In fact, to keep your cholesterol level down, these saturated fats should be used sparingly.

Undoubtedly, changing your eating habits will contribute to your healthy longevity. So in essence, "we are what we eat"; so eat nutriously, feel good and be happy.



RECIPE FOR HEALTHY LIVING

Jim and Jean Delamater, Oxford

VEGETABLE QUICHE

1/2 cup long quick rice
1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
3 large egg whites
3 medium-size vegetables, peeled, grated
1 cup low sodium chicken broth
1/4 teapsoon parsley flakes
1 large egg
1 cup skim milk
1/4 teaspoon black pepper

1. Cook rice according to directions omitting salt.
2. Preheat oven to 350°. Coat a 9" pie plate with PAM. Mix together rice, 1/2 the cheese and 1 egg white. Press combined mixture into the pie plate. Bake, uncovered 5 minutes. Remove, cool.
3. Steam vegetables. Add to chicken broth and parsley. Cook together over low heat until liquid has evaporated and vegetables are almost glazed. Cool to room temperature.
4. Beat together remaining egg whites and whole egg. Add to vegetables along with milk, pepper and remaining cheese. Pour mixture into the pie shell and bake, uncovered until filing is puffed and set, about 20 minutes. Remove and cool 15 minutes.

The recipe is from the Bethel Area Health Center's Hearty Happenings cookbook. The cookbook is on sale at the center. Proceeds from sales of the cookbook help to pay for the Health Center's EKG machine.

'The Nutcracker' returns to Bethel

"The Nutcracker," a sold-out performance two years ago, is coming back to Bethel by popular demand. On Saturday, Nov. 26, at Telstar's Helen Berry Auditorium, the Robinson Ballet Company from Bangor will present a fully mounted production of E.T.A. Hoffman's famous story, set to music by Tchaikovsky. The performance is presented by the Mahoosuc Arts Council, with the support of the Maine Arts Commission. The show will begin at 7 p.m. Tickets are priced at $6 for students under 12 and $8 for adults, in advance, or $8 for students, $10 for adults at the door. Advance tickets are available at Preb's Pharmacy in Bethel or call the Mahoosuc office at 824-3575 and leave a message. Advance ticket sales will end on Friday, Nov. 25, at 5 p.m. Be sure to get your tickets early for this traditional holiday favorite.

Additionally, Mahoosuc Arts is presenting a free lecture/demonstration given by members of the Robinson Ballet company on that same Saturday at noon in the Telstar auditorium. There will be an opportunity for students of beginner to intermediate levels to participate in a movement class led by the dancers. Please wear appropaite dance clothing, ballet slippers and/or pointe shoes. These programs are free of charge and the public is invited to attend.

Agnes Gray School

By MARTA CLEMENTS

Even though I haven't been writing on a regular basis, a lot has been going on at the Agnes Gray and Legion Memorial schools.

One-half of our resource room has been turned into a computer lab. Our third-grade teacher, Jim Burke, is leading us all in computer technology. Mr. Burke, along with Mr. Koch, Mrs. Biggers and Mrs. Loper are offering classes to students, teachers and parents. Mondays, from 3 to 4 p.m. and from 6 to 8 p.m., there is an open lab offered. Parents and children are learning and working together. On Tuesdays, from 3 to 4 p.m., Mr. Burke gives computer instruction to third-graders who have permission to stay and available transportation home. Monday through Friday, from 12:30 to 1 p.m., the lab is open for students, with teachers supervising. During Friday activity period, from 2:15 to 3 p.m., students sign up to work on the computers. As soon as the door is installed, so computer students won't disturb the resource room, the lab will enjoy more use. Students and adults are excited about all the learning and all the fun that we are having with computers.

Thanksgiving activities will be going on in all classes and during activity periods, but Mrs. Loper's first-graders will be learning about Thanksgiving in style. They will prepare a Thanksgiving dinner in their own building, the Legion Memorial School, on Nov. 21. Many thanks are being sent to Mr. John O'Leary for hooking up their stove. The class will also be involved in a variety of activities surrounding the concept of celebration. They will make pasta necklaces in patterns, write stories about birds, including the turkey, make puppets and Indian headbands, and measure ingredients for a Thanksgiving recipe.

The second-graders, the Super Brains, are completing their first final copy of a story including covers and illustrations. The covers will consist of torn paper designs, which is an extension of what they have learned in art class with Mr. Dearing. My next report from the Super Brains will be about what they are doing in their study of the environment.

Mr. Litchfield's fourth-graders are reading Barbara Cooney's "Island Boy" as a class book. In their Maine studies class they are watching filmstrips about different kinds of fishing off the Maine coast. They are writing stories about the different kinds of fishing. In math they are adding and subtracting large numbers. In science they are learning about electricity, current and static electricity. The first book report of the new quarter was due on Nov. 18.

My fifth-graders are learning about constellations and the myths and legends that surround them. They will be creating their own constellations and creating their own stories about them. They are also working on their space projects, which are due Dec. 7. We received our first letters from our Native American pen pals who attend the Crazy Horse School in Wanblee, S.D. The boys and girls were so excited that they began their replies immediately. They didn't even wait for me to make the assignment! We are welcoming a new student, Brandee Gallant. Brandee has only been with us for two weeks, but she's joining right in with all our projects.

Mr. Koch's sixth-graders have been working on problem solving. After learning how to solve some logic problems, Mr. Koch asked them to create their own. The next step was to find someone to solve these student-created problems. So, the fifth-graders were asked to help out. What fun! Some of my fifth-graders found the problems so interesting that they started creating their own.

This past week we celebrated Wilderness Week, The Great American Smokeout, and National Education Week. Parents were invited to come to school and eat lunch with their children. They could participate in the hot lunch program, or bring a bag lunch. Several parents attended, and their children appreciated their presence. Stickers were worn by parents and staff that said, "Educating everyone takes everyone." We do need to work together for the benefit of all.

Last, but certainly not least, is the Christmas Bazaar. Last year's bazaar was so successful that the parent volunteer group is trying again. A different group of volunteers is organizing this year's bazaar, so please give Bunny O'Leary or Mary Guy a call if you are interested in any capacity, or have any questions, or would like to rent a table, etc., etc. Some things will be different, but some will be the same. You can have your picture taken with Santa Claus, buy food at the food sale, check out a variety of crafts, and have a great time as usual. The date is Saturday, Dec. 3. The time is 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The place is the Agnes Gray School gymnasium. Tables can be rented for $10. See you there.

MAT WEAVING LESSONS--Audrey Brooke of Newry recently spent a day at the Andover Elementary School, teaching the students how to weave grass into large mats. AES students are studying American Indian life. Indians used grass mats to construct log houses. PANCAKES WITH SANTA

The Oxford Hills YMCA has invited children ages six months through seven years and their families to join Santa Claus for breakfast on Saturday, Dec. 3 or Dec. 10, from 8 to 10 a.m., at the Country Way Restaurant. "Breakfast With Santa" includes a pancake breakfast, Christmas present, holiday entertainment and Santa's visit.

St. Nick will talk to each child at their seat and then read the popular, "Twas the Night before Christmas," to everyone.

The well-known Vikettes and Viking Voices, the Oxford Hills High School's boys and girls choirs, under the direction of Cynthia Wescott and Bob Tifft, have just recently toured New York and represented the United States at the United Nations. They are in demand to give performances everywhere, and will be singing Christmas carols on Dec. 3. The Junior High's Viking Connection and Junior Vikettes choir, directed by Mrs. Sawicki, will provide the musical entertainment on Dec. 10.

"Breakfast With Santa" reservations are a must and seating is limited. Santa's elves will escort the families to reserved tables. Grandparents and aunts and uncles are welcome. Everyone will be charged the same price, $3 (whether child or adult) and receive the same pancake breakfast. Babies held in arms, not eating, will be admitted free. Reservations, on a first-come, first-serve basis, will be taken through Dec. 1 or until each day is sold out. Call the Oxford Hills YMCA at 743-7184.

Christmas in Bethel needs volunteers

The annual Country Christmas in Bethel is set for Dec. 3. Santa's arrival, a parade, open houses in village businesses, the tree-lighting on the common and choral sing are just part of the day's events.

The day will also feature "A Taste of Bethel" at the Bethel Inn Conference Center from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Guests buy tickets at the door for 50 cents, and cash them in at various booths. The price for individual dishes will vary.

"We'd like to see this day continue to grow over the years," said chamber executive director Robin Zinchuk. The day is designed as a community celebration to kickoff the holiday season and bring shoppers into the Bethel village, Zinchuk said.

The committee organizing the day is also looking for volunteers to help decorate the Bethel village for the holiday season.

Funds raised at Country Christmas in Bethel events help pay for the decorative swags and ribbons in the village.

The Bethel Garden Club is putting together greens for 33 swags, and other volunteers will make ribbons.

There are also 13 trees around the common that need white lights strung on them. The large Christmas tree on the common also needs to be restrung with colored lights.

A work party will be held on Sunday, Nov. 27. Decorating volunteers should gather on the common at 1 p.m. Once the decorating is complete, hot mulled cider and hot cocoa will be served.

Anyone interested in volunteering or who wants more information can call Barb Testani at 824-4438.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter V. Winslow

Michelle Ann Cummings and Peter V. Winslow were united in marriage Aug. 20, 1994, at 4 p.m. at the Bryant Pond Baptist Church with Rev. Linwood Hanson officiating the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Noreen B. Russo of Bryant Pond and A. Kipp Cummings, also of Bryant Pond.

The bridegroom is the son of Gloria T. Winslow of York and John and Edleen Winslow of Bethel.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Michael Cummings. She wore a custom designed ivory gown that was a knee-length shift in an ivory embossed satin with a full-length overlay and train. The functional gown's bodice and sleeves were embellished with ivory pearl clusters and teardrop dangles. The bodice and sleeves were embroidered organza on chiffon and lace. She carried a bouquet of mums, lilies, baby's breath, and daisies.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Kristi Berryment. Bridesmaids were Brandy Russo and Louisa Maj Westleigh. Kandice Berryment was junior bridesmaid and flower girls were Meaghan Cummings and Amber-Leigh Cummings.

Scott Fraser served as best man. Ushers were Tom Ryan and Keith Savage.

A reception followed at the Jackson-Silver Post 68 in Locke Mills.

The bride graduated from Telstar High School in 1986 and from the University of Maine in Orono in 1988 and 1990.

The bridegroom graduated from Telstar High School in 1980.

The couple are residing in New Sharon.

Mr. & Mrs. Michael J. Noonan

Samantha Jane Wight and Michael James Noonan were united in marriage on Oct. 29 at the Elks Lodge, New Smyrna Beach, Fla. The Rev. Dannie Webster officiated at the 4 p.m. ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of George and Sandra Wight of Bethel. Parents of the bridegroom are John and Phyllis Noonan of Port Orange, Fla.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a tea length gown of ivory satin with fitted bodice embellished with pearls. She carried a bouquet of ivory roses, lilies and carnations.

Kathy Plowman, sister of the groom, was matron of honor. Kristy Plowman was junior bridesmaid and Katie Plowman was flower girl, both are daughters of the matron of honor.

Daren Klimson served as best man. Junior usher was Tommy Noonan, nephew of the groom. Teague Merrill, son of the bride, was ring bearer.

Following a reception at the Elks Lodge, New Smyrna Beach, Fla., the couple left on a wedding cruise to the Bahamas. They are residing in South Daytona, Fla.

The bride graduated from Plymouth Area High School, Plymouth, N.H., and Boyde School, Pittsburgh, Pa. She is employed at C.A.P.O. Inc., Ormand Beach, Fla.

The groom graduated from Port Orange High School, Port Orange, Fla., and attended Community College at Daytona Beach, Fla. He is an electronics technician for Sound Crafters of Daytona Beach, Fla.

Mr. & Mrs Benjamin Kellogg

Diane Ellen Aylward and Benjamin Todd Kellogg were united in marriage on Sept. 24, 1994, at West Bethel Union Church with the Rev. John Williams performing the 2 p.m. ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Donald and Elsie Aylward of Mason Township. Parents of the bridegroom are Benjamin and Diane Kellogg of Bethel.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore an off-the shoulder, floor-length, white satin gown, with sequins and lace that accented the bodice and a sweep train. She carried a bouquet of white and fuchsia carnations, roses and baby's breath. Matron of honor was Penny Blake. Attending as bridesmaids were Mrs. Amy Wheeler and Crystal Aylward, sister of the bride. Abigail Hutchins was flower girl.

Chris Merrill served as best man. Ushers were Bryan Kellogg, brother of the groom, and Carl Colby. Teague Merrill, son of the best man, was ring bearer.

Following a reception at the home of the bride's grandparents, Rupert and Ina Grover, the couple left for a trip to Orlando, Fla. They are residing at East Bethel Road, Bethel.

The bride is employed as a secretary at Grover Gundrilling, Inc., West Bethel, and the groom is a surveyor for Dana Douglass Associates.

Public Notice
Residents of S.A.D. #44

In compliance with Maine Special Education regulations, the following assurances are given:

Related to Section 7.10, Childfind: S.A.D. #44 seeks to identify, locate and evaluate any students between the ages of 3 and 20 years including state wards, state agency clients, and institutional residents who reside within its geographic jurisdiction and who are in need of special education and supportive assistance.

Related to Section 4.2., Responsibility for Education Services: Any exceptional students whose parents or legal guardians reside with S.A.D. #44 will be provided special education services. This includes any students who attend other public schools or private schools on a tuition or contract basis at public expense or who attend private school at private expense. In the case of the latter, the school unit shall make special education services available at a public school or at a religiously neutral site to exceptional students enrolled in private schools.

Any readers knowing of students eligible for, or in need of services under this section are asked to notify the Superintendent Of Schools, Ronald Jenkins, at the district office in Bethel, 284 Walkers Mills Road, Bethel, ME 04217 or by calling the office, 824-2185, between 8 am and 4 pm, Monday through Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Gross

Barbara Jean Bennett and William P. Gross were married Oct. 29, 1994, at 5 p.m. in Locke Mills Legion Hall with Robin L. Gundersen, Notary Public, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mark and Charlotte Bennett of Bethel. The bridegroom is the son of Malcolm and Barbara Gross of Hanover.

The bride wore a white cotton dress with see-through sleeves and lace neckline. She carried silk flowers made by Sheri Dooen.

Lori McPherson, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor and Troy Bennett, brother of the bride, was best man.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the Locke Mills Legion Hall.

The bride is a 1988 graduate of Telstar Regional High School.

The bridegroom is a 1980 graduate of Mountain Valley High School, Rumford. He is employed by James Knight Construction.

Shown here with the bride and groom (center) are their maid of honor, best man and Coleman Gross.

Obituaries

LINA H. REYNOLDS

Lina (Heino) Reynolds, 74, of Lake Wales, Fla., and Newry, died Thursday, Nov. 17, 1994, in the care of her daughter and family at Sunday River, following a 10-year battle with cancer.

She was born at Temple Hill in Waterford July 5, 1920, daughter of Charles and Liisa (Komulainen) Heino. She was educated in Waterford and also attended the Lower Sunday River School. In 1936 she married Ramsey Reynolds. Her early married life was spent in Bath where she was a devoted housewife. She enjoyed cooking, creative seamstress projects, hunting and fishing and berry picking. For several years she worked at the Portland shipyard before moving to Sunday River in the 1940s. She was widowed at the age of 32 and worked as a caregiver and did waitress work for many years.

In the late 1970s, she moved to Lake Wales, Fla., and made her home there for 20 years. There she worked as a companion and caregiver for the elderly until her retirement in 1984.

She belonged to the Lake Wales Scandinavian Club, The Keenagers, Mary Martha Circle, The Young-at-Heart, Bok Tower Gardens, Cypress Gardens, Lake Wales Lutheran Church, the Finnish-American Society of Maine and the Suomi-Seura/Finland Society. She was especially proud of her Finnish heritage, and in 1989 and 1993 she traveled to Finland to seek out 14 relatives. Some of her hobbies included rose gardening, bingo, wildlife, fishing and hunting, covered bridges, picnics and she loved to travel.

She is survived by her daughter and son-in-law, Julie and Eddy Daye of Sunday River; a son, George of California; five sisters, Louise Asperen, Linda Heath and Celia Jacobson of Harrison, Martha Kylinen and Hilda Peterson of Bridgton; two brothers, Albert of Waterford and Robert of Harrison; very close to the family are Esther Wilson of East Bethel and Marie Heino of Norway; eight grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. She was predeceased by her husband, Ramsey in 1952; one sister, Elizabeth Reynolds; three brothers, Carl, Victor and William; and one grandson in 1972.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon, Nov. 20, at the Sunday River Covered Bridge, with the Reverend Mr. Henry Leino, officiating. Members of the family and friends serving as bearers were: Edward Daye, Eric Wright, Joseph Salerno, Harold Peterson, Nicholas Baker, and Robert Heino. Interment was in Sunday River Cemetery. Friends who wish may make memorial contributions in Lina's memory to Androscoggin Home Health Services, 15 Strawberry Avenue, P.O. Box 819, Lewiston, ME 04243, or the Finnish-American Heritage Society, P.O. Box 294, West Paris, ME 04289.

ROBERT W. HERRICK

Robert W. Herrick, 65, of Brackett Road, Gorham, died Tuesday, Nov. 15, 1994, at a Portland hospital.

He was born in Mechanic Falls, son of Wilmont W. and Hester Boyer Herrick. He attended schools in Mechanic Falls and Deering High School in Portland. Mr. Herrick was owner of R.W. Herrick Rubbish Removal Co., Inc., in Gorham. He had worked for the town of Scarborough for the past 25 years.

Mr. Herrick was a member of the Maine Stock Car Association and enjoyed fishing, traveling and camping.

Surviving are his mother of Portland; his wife, Louise Harmon Herrick of Gorham; a son, Robert W. PAUL W. WIGHT

Paul W. Wight, 64, of Bear River Road, Newry, died Friday evening, Nov. 18, 1994, at Stephens Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Wight was born in Newry, Sept. 22, 1930, son of the late Fred and Ida (Littlehale) Wight, and had been a lifelong resident of that community. He attended Newry elementary schools, and graduated from Gould Academy. In 1948 he joined the U.S. Navy, and served aboard the USS Oniskany, CV-34, being discharged in 1952.

On Oct. 14, 1951, he married the former Ethelyne Broomhall, who survives him. For 35 years Mr. Wight was employed with the Maine Department of Transportation, Region 7, until his retirement in 1990.

He was a member of the Newry Community Church, Bethel Lodge AF and AM, #97, and the Windy Valley Snowmobile Club.

Besides his wife of 43 years, he is survived by two daughters: Paula Wight of Gray, and Cheryl Jordan of Windham; three sons, Phillip of Rumford, Gary of Newry, and Mark of Bethel; two brothers, Willard and Owen, both of Newry; three granddaughters and a grandson. He was predeceased by a son, S/Sgt. Alonzo Wight, U.S. Army, who was killed inaction in Vietnam in 1969.

Private funeral services were held Monday morning, Nov. 21, at the Powers Cemetery, with the Rev. Nathan Seckinger, Bethel Alliance Church, officiating. Serving as bearers were: John Wight, George Wight, Jr., Brad Wight, Matt Hodgkins, Norman Inman, and Gerald Broomhall.

RICHARD L. WRIGHT JR.

Richard L. Wright Jr., 70, died Saturday, Nov. 19, 1994 at the Rumford Community Hospital. He had resided on Bernadine Street in Rumford for the past two and a half years and was formerly of Harrison where he had lived for many years. He was born in Caribou on June 16, 1924 and was the son of Richard and Flora (Haney) Wright. A high school graduate, he had attended schools in Caribou.

An Army career man, he served more than 27 years in the military including tours in World War II, the Philippines, Korea and Vietnam and received the Vietnam Cross of Gallantry with palm, the Philippines Liberation medal with two Bronze Stars and retired as a Staff Sergeant.

He was a former member of both the Portland Masonic Lodge and the Portland American Legion Post.

He was married in Portland on May 18, 1946 to the former Althine Tasker, who survives of Rumford. Other survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Cheryl Toney of Tempe, Az., Jessica Wright of Rumford and Mrs. Jeffrey (Tina) Lawrence of Harrison; two sons, Alan Wright of Bethel and Scott Wright of Poolsville, Md.; one brother, Lloyd Wright of North Waterboro; 12 grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, Nov. 22 at the Meader and Son Funeral Home with Rev. Linda Shevlin officiating. Interment in the Farrington-Morton Cemetery, Mexico. Those who desire, please contribute to the American Cancer Society, 52 Federal St., Brunswick, Me., 04011, in his memory.

BERNARD L. POWERS

Bernard L. Powers, 76, of the Bear River Road in Newry, died Sunday morning, Nov. 20, 1994, at his residence, after a brief illness. Mr. Powers was born in Newry, son of the late Harry and Bertha (Burgess) Powers, attended the Newry schools, and was a lifelong resident of that community.

On May 4, 1939, he married the former Rena Nowlin. A veteran of WWII, he served in the U.S. Army, as a Tech-5, with Co. D, 708th MP Battalion, as a POW guard.

Mr. Powers was the oldest, and had the most seniority of any state employee. For over 60 years he had been associated with the MDOT, Division 7, as a highway maintenance worker, until illness forced him to take sick leave in September.

For nearly half a century, Mr. and Mrs. Powers owned and operated the Lone Wolf Garage and Trucking Co. in Newry, known as the "last gas before the Notch."

Mr. Powers was instrumental in the development of Sunday River Ski Area, by being responsible for the road and parking construction when it was first developed. In later years, he was again involved with Sunday River Ski Area, this time as a summit lift operator, a position he enjoyed for a number of years.

Mr. Powers was a member of the Bethel Lodge, AF & AM, #97, Kora Temple of Lewiston, the Mundt-Allen American Legion Post of Bethel, and was also a member of the Maine State Employees Association.

Besides his wife of 55 years, he is survived by two daughters: Christine McLaughlin of Hebron and Kathleen Paton of Tulsa, Okla; a son, Lawrence of Hebron; a brother, Mervin of Mims, Fla; a half brother, Warren of Newry; six grandchildren, and nine nieces and nephews.

Memorial services will be held at the Summit Hotel and Conference Center, Sunday River Ski Area, Saturday, Nov 26, at 2 p.m. with Rodney Hanscom officiating, to which relatives and friends are invited.

MAURICE J. BOUCHARD

Maurice John Bouchard, 75, died Sunday, Nov. 20, 1994, at his home.

He was born in Caribou on April 19, 1919, the son of Mack E. and Alice (Vermette) Bouchard. Mr. Bouchard was a graduate of Caribou High School and Strayer College in Washington D.C. He also attended the U.S. Coast Guard Academy and served from 1942-46 with the U.S. Coast Guard.

He was married to Romaine E. Sennett Colford of Feb. 8, 1964. She died on Feb. 28, 1991. He was a clerk for 23 years for the U.S. Forest Service and he retired in 1980. He lived in Bethel for many years and was a life member of Mundt-Allen Post #81. He was also a member of the American Legion Post 40 and 8 of Skowhegan, the Exchange Club, Jaycees, Cornville Budget and School Committee, Lions Club, local Boy Scouts and Washington, D.C. Sea Scouts.

He is survived by five sisters, Alma Miller of Wilmington, Del., Catherine Antonelli of Skowhegan, Irene Willett of Meriden, Conn., Alice Zawalich of Meriden, Conn. and Elaine Wimmer of Skowhegan; three brothers, Leon of Bangor, Lewis of Skowhegan and Timothy of California; three stepdaughters, Helen Lewis of Albion, Marjorie Robbins of Clinton and Rita Coates of Fairfield; and two stepsons, Clifton A. Colford of Fairfield and Robert D. Colford of Waterville.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, Nov. 22, at the Nelson J. Smart Funeral Home, Skowhegan, with the Rev. Marcel Chouinard officiating. Interment was at Maine Veterans Cemetery, Augusta. Donations may be made to the Redington Fairview Hospital Building Fund, Skowhegan.
